Legion Demands Patman Bonus Measure Be Scrapped

ADVOCATES ADOPTION OF VINSON BILL

Currency Expansion Held to Be Weight to Drag Down Legion in Defeat

NO FINANCING PLAN

Committee Rejects Motion to Call Morgenthau and Gen. Hines to Testify

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(UP)—The American Legion today criticized the currency expansion features of the Patman bonus bill as a weight which would drag payment of veterans' adjusted service certificates down to defeat.

John Thomas Taylor, the Legion's No. 1 legislative agent, appeared before the house ways and means committee and demanded the Patman bill be scrapped in favor of the proposal sponsored by Rep. Fred Vinson, D., Ky.

Members of the committee, however, took issue with him and charged that the Legion merely demanded payment but could offer no plan to raise the revenue necessary to pay the $2,100,000,000 cost.

The Patman measure provides for financing the bonus by a currency issue. The Vinson method provides bonds.

"The American Legion does not want its bonus bill attached to any other kite," Taylor said.

"Legislation of this character cannot pass the senate. The Vinson bill can pass the senate and become a law."

Rep. John McCormack, D., Mass., challenged Taylor.

"How are you going to finance the Legion bill?" McCormack asked.

"That is something for the appropriations committee and the secretary of the treasury to settle," Taylor replied. "We have no answer for that question."

Rep. Samuel B. Hill, D., Wash., asked Taylor:

"Why do you say the Patman bill cannot pass the senate?"

Taylor explained that on the basis of the senate's past action on inflationary legislation such a proposal could not become a law. The committee rejected, 14 to 6, a motion by Rep. Alan Treadway, R., Mass., to summon Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau and Veterans Administrator Gen. Frank T. Hines before the committee.

SEN. LONG PROMISES FARLEY SENSATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(UP)—Sen. Huey P. Long promised revelations today that would "rock the capital from one end to the other" in his fight for investigation of Postmaster General James A. Farley.

The Louisiana Kingfish said he would produce witnesses before the senate postoffice committee hearing on his investigation resolution who would make "shocking disclosures" against his sworn enemy.

Farley, who previously had refused to take Long's charges seriously, replied with a denial of charges he had used his political office for private gain. His denial was made in a letter to the committee.

ALIEN LAND LAW IN ARIZONA REPORTED

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 5.—(UP)—Arizona's alien land bill, one of the most drastic ever drafted, was reported out of the house of representatives agricultural and irrigation committee today without recommendation.

Harry J. Sullivan, sponsor of the bill and chairman of the committee, announced the bill would be submitted to the legislators without recommendations for or against passage after his committee had the measure under consideration one month.

The measure still awaits a report of the judiciary committee before being brought to the floor for consideration by a committee of the whole.

TOWNSEND OLD AGE PENSION PLAN GIVEN ENDORSEMENT OF GOVERNOR FRANK F. MERRIAM

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—(UP)—The Townsend Old Age Pension Plan, providing $200 monthly to all persons over 60 including Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller, gained new impetus today from the unqualified endorsement given it by Gov. Frank F. Merriam.

In a statewide address last night the Governor held up the plan of Dr. Francis Everett Townsend of Long Beach, Cal., as an ideal one for providing old age relief.

Merriam advocated national adoption of the plan of his fellow townsman. He said further that he would recommend that the state legislature adopt resolutions "calling upon Congress to approve the basic principles of the Townsend plan in any form to be formulated by the federal government."

The governor considered as inadequate the California old age pension system, which limits the maximum payment to $30 a month. He pointed out that no provision has been made to increase the payments through furnishing additional funds in the next biennium.

In asking that the state legislature call upon Congress to enact the basic principles of the California's program, the governor said:

Public Demand
"Whatever the immediate outcome may be, it is certain that an aroused public opinion will demand enactment of federal and state legislation adequately meeting the problem which Dr. Townsend has undertaken to solve."

"If the national Congress should approve a satisfactory old age pension plan after the California legislature adjourns, I shall favoring additional funds in the next biennium."

ABYSSINIA AND ITALY SAID TO BE IN ACCORD

Establishment of Neutral Zone Assures Peaceful End to Dispute

ROME, March 5.—(UP)—Italy's dispute with Abyssinia over border raids in East Africa, which sent a procession of troops laden with arms to the Mediterranean, was believed assured of peaceful settlement today when agreement was reached for a neutral zone.

It was announced officially that a neutral zone six kilometers (3.7 miles) wide would be established along the disputed frontier of Abyssinia and Italian Somaliland.

It was understood that agreement practically had been reached on all other outstanding questions in the dispute.

Accepts proposal
The government, it was announced, notified its military government at Uadair of its decision to accept the neutral zone proposal, and the Abyssinian government notified its commander at Gerjoub.

Italy accepted a proposal to allow Nomad tribesmen to cross the neutral zone under certain conditions which the military commanders in the areas will approve.

The commanders will arrange procedure until all boundary disagreements are eliminated, it was said.

Conversations will be continued at Addis Ababa, the Abyssinian capital, until all details regarding the neutral zone have been completed.

Dispatch Troops
Despite the prospect of agreement, it was said that the government would continue dispatching war material and troops to Somali and Itrea and it was felt that the colonies had always been under-garrisoned and the government wanted sufficient troops there to cope with any unexpected incident so as not to expose its forces to a massacre at the hands of Abyssinian irregular troops or nomads.

Ships were being loaded at Messina and Naples.

There was an impressive demonstration of Italy's military preparedness today, when King Victor Emanuel and Mussolini reviewed the Italian troops who went to the Saar for the plebiscite.

PAGAN TENDENCIES ASSAILED BY POPE

VATICAN CITY, March 5.—(UP)—The pagan life lived nowadays is far more shocking than the ancient one, the pope said today in an address to the lenten preachers of Rome, outlining the ills to be condemned in their sermons.

"The worst ill is represented in the intense pleasure-seeking in the present days of mankind," the pontiff said. "Nudity existed only in art in ancient Greece and Rome, whereas today it is the object of worship."

"Today's impudicity is worse than the pagan age. It is defined with the horrible blasphemy of 'the use and worship of nudity.' Not even the old pagans led such a pleasure-seeking life as the pagans of today."

"Another pagan tendency is represented in the audacity with which virtue is mocked and endangered."

Lent starts tomorrow with the Ash Wednesday services.

SAFETY OF AIRPLANE
The aviator, in completing arrangements for the exhibition, said he would fly over the airport, cut his motor, then release the giant parachute which is expected to lower the plane gently enough to prevent a serious crash. The chute has a diameter of 60 feet.

Aviation enthusiasts believed the test, if successful, would pave the way toward development of a new safety device for airplanes.

STATE AUTO SPEED LIMIT IS SET ASIDE IN COURT RULING

Judge Holds Mere Speed Not Factor

Decides Motorist Can Travel at Any Rate if Life Not Endangered

VISALIA, Cal., March 5.—(UP)—California's generally-recognized automobile speed limit was set aside today in a superior court decision, which, in effect, opened the highways to any speed an automobile can travel.

The decision, announced by Judge Frank Lamberson when he reversed the justice court conviction of Francis Lederer, movie actor, on traffic charges, held that mere speed is not a violation of the motor vehicle act.

Lederer, accompanied by Mary Anita Loos, Hollywood writer and niece of Anita Loos, the novelist, was cited by a state highway patrolman last November for driving his automobile 68 miles per hour on the highway near Tulare.

Lederer was charged in justice court with violating the motor vehicle act. Justice Ward Rush sentenced him and sentenced him to serve five days in jail. The curly-haired actor appealed at once to the superior court.

Through his counsel, Lederer argued that unless a motorist endangers life or property, he may drive as fast as his automobile and his nerve will permit. The generally-recognized speed limit of 45 miles per hour is not binding, he contended. Judge Lamberson upheld these contentions.

The effect of the decision, laymen here believed, will be that given a clear road, a motorist may drive 100 miles an hour or more, if he desires and "his automobile will travel that fast."

Japanese Extend Good Will to All

TOKYO, March 5.—(UP)—Beaming with good will toward all foreign nations, Foreign Minister Koki Hirota said today that Japan welcomed British-American cooperation for the betterment of China.

Hirota gave an account of his stewardship of Japan's foreign affairs to the diet, before which he appeared for questioning.

Relations with the United States, he said, are improving. He hoped that sometime that nation would modify its immigration laws.

The Arizona anti-Japanese incidents are regrettable but such matters are purely domestic, he said. Japan has asked the United States to solve the problems as peacefully as possible.

In discussing the reported British-American loan to China, Hirota said his information on a proposed consortium was very meager. He intimated that he was doubtful that the United States government favored lending money to China.

MILLS CO-ED SLAIN BY JEALOUS LOVER

OAKLAND, Cal., March 5.—(UP)—A college senior and his freshman sweetheart sought in death the companionship of family. Relations denied them in life, a reconstruction of the tragedy of Walter Norris and Jean Marie Stable indicated today.

Their love story played out its last lines on the campus of Mills college last night when Walter, 23-year-old senior at San Jose State college, sent two bullets crashing into the breast of his 17-year-old sweetheart, and then fired a single bullet into his own head.

Jean Marie, freshman at Mills college where the slaying-suicide occurred, died instantly. Walter died two hours later in a hospital.

Girl's Condition Is Held Unchanged

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 5.—(UP)—Buttermilk was fed to little Alyce Jane McHenry today as doctors sought to fortify the 10-year-old Omaha girl for a long siege of recovery from yesterday's operation in which her upside-down stomach was righted.

A bulletin issued shortly after 11 a. m. read:

"Alyce's condition is unchanged. There is no change in pulse, respiration or temperature. She has been having a few sips of water and has just started taking teaspoonful doses of buttermilk."

Radio Priest and Senator Denounced as "Preachers of Destruction"

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, March 5.—(UP)—Senator Huey Long will speak on the radio at 11:30 p. m., Thursday, presumably in reply to the attack upon him by Gen. Hugh Johnson, the National Broadcasting company announced today. The address will be over station WJZ for 30 minutes. N.B.C. will donate the time.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who last night bitterly assailed Sen. Huey Long and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin in a speech in New York, characterizing the two as "preachers of destruction."

Gen. Johnson stood his ground today, awaiting a storm of protest over his denunciation of Sen. Huey P. Long, D., La., and the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin as preachers of "destruction."

The blunt-spoken general was as forceful as ever in his aggressive attack on the two men last night. The radio priest was a "bad fish in the net of the holy church," and Long was a "plausible puchinello" to Johnson.

"Stripped to the facts," he said, "and whether consciously or not, these two men are raging up and down this land preaching not construction, but destruction, not reform, but revolution, not peace, but a sword. I think we are dealing with a couple of catinates and that it is high time for somebody to say so."

"Pied Pipers"

Johnson viewed Father Coughlin and the Louisiana kingfish as leaders of an "emotional fringe." He called them "two pied pipers."

"Hitler couldn't hold a candle to Huey in the art of the old Barnum ballyhoo," Johnson declared. "We expect politics to make strange bedfellows, but if Father Coughlin wants to engage in political bawling with Huey Long, it is only a fair fight move to take off his Roman caesack."

Johnson attempted to connect Father Coughlin's campaign for silver legislation with his "private"

SERA PROGRAM IN COUNTY TO BE CONTINUED

More Than $200,000 Allocated by State for Current Month Payroll

Projects in Orange county under the SERA work relief program was assured for the current month today when Director Terrence H. Halloran received definite instructions from State Director Frank Y. McLaughlin.

The program will continue practically on the same basis as in the past. Orange county has been allotted $200,524 for relief expenditures during the current month, it was learned today in McLaughlin's instructions, which is little less than the $205,000 which was used in relief work here in February.

Allocation of the $200,524 for relief purposes in Orange county means that the average family budget of $42.93 can be maintained during the current month, Director Halloran said.

The works program will go along as usual except that projects classed as strictly maintenance and projects which would ordinarily be taken care of by political subdivisions in their current operations will be abandoned.

Reduction of salaries to administrative employees was ordered by McLaughlin in the instructions received here. The reductions run from five per cent up to 20 per cent.

END LOAN COMPANY PROBE THIS WEEK

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 5.—(UP)—Conclusion of the legislative investigation into California's building and loan situation was expected here this week.

The final series of hearings was to start today with officials of the mercantile building and loan association of Stockton being questioned by committee members headed by Assemblyman Frederick Peterson, Burlingame.

Harold A. Noble, president; D. Corbett, assistant secretary; C. C. Parkinson, attorney, and Leo C. McCann, auditor of the mercantile association, were to appear before the committee.

The committee also planned one more meeting with Friend W. Richardson, former building and loan commissioner, before the inquiry is concluded and a report submitted to the assembly.

GREEK TROOPS PREPARING FOR FINISH BATTLE

Cross Struma River in Macedonia for Crushing Blow on Rebels

BULLETIN
ATHENS, March 5.—(UP)—Troops under General Ionnidis were reported today to have defeated the rebels in Eastern Macedonia and scattered them to the eastward.

(Copyright 1935 by United Press)

ATHENS, March 5.—(UP)—Government troops under Gen. George Condylis crossed the Struma river in Macedonia today, seeking a final fight with the rebel army under General Camenos.

Camenos, from his headquarters in the Drama-Cavalla area to the east, wireless an appeal to President Alexander Zaimis, asking his personal mediation to prevent a major battle.

Camenos also wireless the rebel navy at Souda Bay, off the island of Crete, begging it to sail to Cavalla harbor to assist him. One destroyer of the little rebel force was sent to him.

A government force of warships with five bombing airplanes circling overhead, was believed approaching Souda bay to engage the rebels in a decisive action.

General Condylis, in a proclamation to the rebel rank and file, announced he would attack in force unless they surrendered today.

At the same time, he notified Camenos that unless he gave in by noon, the government forces would move on him.

Condylis in reports to the government said that he thought tomorrow would see a fight that would leave the rebels crushed.

The government had announced that it had arrested the man who, it believed, is the chief financier of the rebellion, aimed at putting Eleutherios Venizelos, "Lion of Crete" and for a generation a leading political figure, back in office.

He is Anthony Piz, one of the country's leading brewers. He was arrested at Salonica and transferred to Athens.

WILEY POST WILL TEST PLANE TODAY

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—(UP)—Wiley Post's Winnie Mae was about ready for testing today prior to another transcontinental stratosphere attempt by the one-eyed Oklahoma flyer.

Post was reported to be in Kansas City by his associates here today, and was expected to arrive tomorrow or Thursday to give his snub-nosed ship a thorough test before determining on the time for his takeoff.

Post's first flight ended shortly after it started recently when the flier was forced down on Muroc dry lake, 100 miles from here. Investigation of the crash had been placed in the supercharger of the Winnie's Mae's motor, resulting in a leak in the oil line.

PREVAILING WAGE RIDER IS REJECTED

Committee Makes Favorable Report After Eliminating Cause of Dispute

LABOR WILL BATTLE

McCarren Declares He Will Submit Wage Amendment on Floor for Action

WASHINGTON, March 5.—(UP)—The senate appropriations committee, making rapid progress to previous delays, today voted a favorable report on the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill and sent it back to the senate.

The action was taken at a session which lasted less than two hours.

The McCarran prevailing wage amendment, adopted in the senate by a vote of 44 to 43 and the cause of much controversy and delay, was defeated in the committee by a vote of 12 to 11.

Sen. Pat McCarran, D., Nev., said he would again offer the amendment on the floor.

That was the procedure when the committee originally considered the bill. McCarran's proposal was rejected then, but approved when it was brought up in the senate.

Today's action of the committee was in decided contrast to the delay which occurred when the bill first came over to the senate after passage by the house on January 24.

The committee debated its various provisions until February 14 before sending it into the midst of the senate prevailing wage controversy which subsequently caused its recommitment to the committee.

The swift action was taken as indicative of administration confidence that the legislation would be adjusted to such a point that orderly progress could be made in the face of an unruly senate situation.

Leaders of organized labor, however, declared they would not weaken in their fight for the prevailing wage amendment.

McCarran said he had offered his amendment in exactly the form previously approved by the senate.

A summary of the committee's action in returning the bill, already passed by the house, to a resumption of senate debate:

1. Rejected the McCarran prevailing wage amendment, 12 to 11.

2. Adopted an amendment allocating the fund into eight general classes with a 20 per cent margin for presidential revision. The vote was 14 to 6.

3. Defeated, without a record vote, the effort of Sen. Alva B. Adams, D., Colo., to have the appropriation reduced to $2,880,000,000.

4. Defeated, also without a record vote, an effort by Sen. Frederick Hale, R., Me., to have the appropriation reduced to $1,000,000,000.

5. Defeated, without a record vote, a proposal by Sen. John G. Townsend, Jr., R., Del., to require bond financing before the appropriation could become available.

6. Struck out a previously adopted amendment by Sen. Millard Tydings, D., Md., relating to

BRUNO MAY NEVER SEE HIS SON AGAIN

TRENTON, N. J., March 5.—(UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who awaits execution in the state prison for the murder of the Lindbergh baby, may never see his own son again.

"I will never take my baby in that place," Mrs. Hauptmann declared emphatically as she waited an hour to see her husband. "I will never take him in the death house."

Officials said minors are not permitted in the death house but it is customary for condemned men to see their children one week before execution. Manfred, the Hauptmann baby, is 15 months old.

Mrs. Hauptmann said her husband was in good spirits. "He sleeps well and eats well," she said. "He is not afraid because he knows he hasn't done anything."

corporation, the radio league of the little flower." Then he added: "I don't question the right of any man to invest money as he will, but when a priest, vowed to poverty and preaching to the poor, flays the faith of a people to advance a monetary interest, his own or another, you can about conclude that Judas Iscariot was just a poor piker. He sold out the hope of the world for 30 pieces of silver, when today he might have bartered for 50,000 ounces on so small a thing as abuse of the trust of a national congregation."

Johnson expressed confidence that his friends in the priesthood "will bear me out when I say I think we have here a prostitution of their holy office, a violation of vows and a degradation of the teachings of Jesus Christ."

SEN. LONG DEMANDS CHANCE TO ANSWER

WASHINGTON, March 5. — (UP)—Sen. Huey P. Long, fighting mad, today demanded equal time over the air to answer the scathing attack leveled on him by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

"I've asked the broadcasting company," Long said, "for equal time to answer that speech and you're damn right I'm going to get it."

"Mister Baruch and Mister Johnson—they're the inside workers, you know. First and second story style. They wrecked three presidents, including the present one. They're the chief wreckers under Roosevelt."

"Last I heard of that little Johnson was he was trying to issue statements what a hell of a fellow the president was. He was saying that down here when he was made to fold up and get out."

"The ravens are gathering," he said, "the ravens and crows have decided to fly together for a while longer—you get me? They're going to fly together a while longer. I understand what this little Mister Johnson was speaking about last night was the start off of his obituary. He's starting off his obituary—get me?"

BEVERLY HILLS, March 5. (To the Editor of The Register:) Say, the Greeks have a word for it, and it's bullets. There is one thing in common with all revolutions (in fact, they are pretty near like wars in that respect,) nobody ever knows what they are fighting about.

Too bad we (so foolishly) split up the old Negro Tenth Cavalry. We could have loaned them to this King Abd-Dab-Ba down there and Mussolini would have "shinned over on his own side."

cent generally. Those who receive less than $22 a week who are on the administrative payroll will not be affected.

It was ordered that the program of removing ineligible from the rolls of SERA be continued. This will be done, according to Halloran, on an individual case basis, each case being individually checked before any action is taken.

The design is to keep on the works program those who are classed as employables and who would be working in normal times in private industry. Persons more than 65 years of age will not be eligible, according to the new ruling.

Those who are taken off work relief will be given direct relief if they are eligible, it was said. Those on work relief receive cash, while those on direct relief get a dole in the form of grocery orders, rent payments, etc.

ADOPTION OF PATMAN BILL IS ADVOCATED

"In a matter involving $2,000,000 we should have the opinion of the treasury and veterans officials," Treadway said.

Rep. Jere Cooper, D., Tenn., moved to table the motion. There was a possibility, however, that Morgenstern and Hines would be summoned when the committee goes into secret session.

Frank Belgrano Jr., national commander of the Legion, took up the appeal for the Vinson bill, asserting it "will come nearer to meeting with the approval of the administration and nearer to becoming law than any other proposal."

"What is the objection to payment of the bonus under the Patman plan?" Hill asked. "Why would not that plan be acceptable?"

"We can only proceed along the line laid down by the mandate of the Legion convention at Miami last year," Belgrano said.

Then Rep. Arthur P. Lamneck, D., O., told Belgrano:

"Your organization wants the bonus paid, but it wants it paid in its way. I wouldn't care a continental how it was paid just so long as it was paid."

Entertainment Club Permit To Be Investigated

Councilmen Fred Rowland and Joseph P. Smith were named last night to study the application of the Orange County Entertainment club to hold semi-monthly programs in Santa Ana and collect money from members to pay for entertainment.

Bernard M. Sandow, C. P. Hurd, Fred Wurster and L. S. Stevens, club officials, stated that their organization had grown too large to hold meetings in private homes.

These sessions include dinners, cards, dancing and music and are sponsored to promote music, social ability and better community spirit, the sponsors said.

Admission is secured by membership cards which are circulated in advance and signed by the members, it was said. After the crowd has assembled, the costs of the entertainment are computed and the expense pro-rated among those present. The next party has been planned for March 15 and the Legion hall has been secured, it was said.

The sponsors submitted to the council a request to solicit donations of $50 to $70 twice each month. The question arose over whether such an activity should be licensed as a show, entertainment or program, whether admission was charged when the general public was not invited, or whether any action was needed from the council.

Smith and Rowland were given power to act so that a decision would be reached before the next scheduled meeting of the club.

ATTITUDES OF HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TOWARD PARENTS REVEALED IN QUESTIONNAIRE

By GEORGE HART

Father was further stripped of all the lordly place he fondly imagined he had held in his own house, when Parent-Teacher leaders last night continued dissecting the collective opinion of Santa Ana High School students regarding their sires "and other household nuisances."

Examining the more than 900 replies to a recent student questionnaire at the second of a series of six studies in Willard school library last night, the P.-T. A. group developed further startling views of the rising generation.

In the eyes of his offspring, the father of present depression days not only has a bad temper and suffers nervousness and impatience—possibly due to business worries—but he is a "good" manager.

Take the word of the youngsters for it, dad is irritable, arrogant, argumentative, and stubborn, not to mention unreasonable. And oh such social manners! They didn't mention using his knife to the pie, but something like that must have happened.

And perhaps one of dad's worst sins is that "he can't realize that we are grown up."

Pretty Good, at That

However, after duly considering the matter and relieving themselves of privileged comment perhaps tactfully suppressed at home, the youngsters finally agreed that, after all, the "old man" wasn't so bad.

He really is a good sport, too, and, come to think of it, has been a "good pal," as many of them expressed it. He can and does keep secrets; he is generous and faithful and jolly, besides being industrious and a "good manager."

So there you are—and dad is going to be just as conceded as ever.

As for mother, well, mother has a bit of temper, too, that being the largest criticism. Over-anxiety and worry, which perhaps the youngsters didn't stop to think might cause temper, were listed high among mother's "faults." Perhaps the depression was mother's fault, too, but, anyway—

Mother, like father, is inclined to be unreasonable, she "won't forget things," and she is too suspicious, always looking for wrong, and "afraid I'll go wrong."

But, amid all this gentle criticism, mother, like dad, found some splendid defense to soften it. High school students think their mothers are "understanding;" the boys particularly admire their cooking and probably will tell future wives about it. Mother has humor, is loving, and, as many of the students said approvingly, "she agrees with father." So father, after all, was right, as he knew all the time.

And mother is forgiving, they added.

Reactions Expressed

And how do the students act toward parental authority? "When I can't have my own way," the questionnaire phrased it.

Seventy-six out of every hundred girls and 62 boys said they sulked; 77 girls and 66 boys out of every hundred of each, said

C. C. OPPOSES HOLMES SINKS PLANNED SALES INTO COMA AND TAX INCREASE END HELD NEAR

Opposition to the state legislative proposal that the sales tax be increased to three per cent and be absorbed by merchants instead of being paid by the public was voiced at a meeting of members of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon in the Green Cat cafe.

First of a series of meetings at which the membership of the chamber will be invited to sit in with the board of directors to discuss mutual problems, more than 45 merchants attended the initial meeting yesterday. Considerable enthusiasm was expressed at the nature of the meetings, which will be continued as part of the chamber of commerce activities under the reorganization set-up.

J. H. Bell moved that the chamber go on record as opposing the state administration plan to saddle the burden of the sales tax on merchants. Following considerable discussion Secretary Howard L. Wood was instructed to write to Governor Merriam, state legislation and others expressing the opposition to changing the present sales tax set-up.

Pat Doan, Santa Fe representative, urged the chamber to seek to interest the thousands of railroad men over 60 be pensioned, be should the present bill before Congress which provides that railroad men over 60 be pensioned, be passed, in coming to Santa Ana to live. He pointed out that the moving here of a number of the men would add considerably to the business volume of the city.

Rodney Bacon suggested that the Santa Ana Municipal bowl be expanded and that efforts be made to secure a major league baseball team to locate here as spring training quarters.

President J. P. Baumgartner, who presided at the session, informed members that the chamber of commerce is sending condolences to the Spurgeon family because of the death of Mrs. W. H. Spurgeon.

The next meeting will be held two weeks from yesterday.

Finally Dr. Thomas Claytor, his personal physician, announced that Holmes had lost consciousness and that with his rapid weakening it was doubtful if he ever roused again.

Claytor refused any statement as to how long the patient might continue to resist the ravages of the disease.

Holmes is constantly under an oxygen tent. His only nourishment now is provided by intravenous injections of a glucose solution.

A traffic officer was stationed at the modest Holmes residence to prevent undue congestion or noise. The end was accepted by all those in the Holmes household as inevitable.

Work relief bill back in senate again

Requirements for employment on work relief projects.

The committee chairman, Sen. Carter Glass, D., Va., offered the allocation amendment and explained it as follows:

"The amendment reported by the committee is wholly in accord with the principles for caring for the needy unemployed as stated by the president in his message of Jan. 4. The broad categories laid down allow a large variety of individual projects and as often stated by the president, the need for latitude in the transfer of funds to meet project conditions as they develop is adequately cared for."

Allocations to the various types of work projects contemplated were: Highways, roads, grade crossings $800,000,000.

Rural electrification $100,000,000.
Housing $450,000,000.
Projects for professional and clerical persons $300,000,000.
Civilian conservation corps $600,000,000.
Public projects of states $900,000,000.
Sanitation, prevention of soil erosion, reforestation, etc. $250,000,000.

The amendment, offered by Chairman Carter Glass and adopted by a vote of 14 to 6, provided that the president might increase any of the allocations by a sum not to exceed 20 per cent of the original estimate.

orally entertain the possibility of other aspects of his program. Dr. Townsend has suggested the only workable basis for financing old age relief.

Recalling that the legislature already had petitioned congress to scrutinize the Townsend system in studying the old age pension problem, Merriam said of the plan itself:

"There are merits in such a program which must be recognized and which must be incorporated in a national old age pension policy."

Plan Workable

"I have seen no specific proposals for old age relief which, in their basic principles, are as workable as the Townsend plan. Granting that certain modifications and adjustments in the plan may be found advisable, Dr. Townsend's recommendations have my approval and will continue to have my support."

"Any old age pension, if effective, must provide the individual with an income sufficient to maintain him or her in decency and comfort."

HEROIN FROM MEXICO FOUND AFTER CRASH

A thousand-dollar supply of heroin, destined for the Santa Anita race tracks, according to the men who had it, presumably for the "doping" of race horses, was seized by Orange county officers last yesterday following the arrest of Francisco Estrella, 45, National City contractor, and Daniel Flores, 36, Tia Juana cafe owner, who were involved in an unimportant traffic collision near Seal Beach.

Officer Harry Wilde, of the California Highway patrol, made the arrest of the two men at the scene of the accident. They were turned over to Deputy Sheriffs G. F. McKelvey and R. E. Steinberger, who conducted them to the county jail. During the course of the routine search of prisoners at the jail, the drug was found upon Estrella, consisting of five packages amounting to six ounces of heroin.

Both prisoners were turned over to Federal Narcotic Agent Moody, who indicated that they would be arraigned, probably late today, before U. S. Commissioner Milburn G. Harvey in Santa Ana, on narcotic charges not yet specifically outlined.

Estrella, it was said, explained to the officers that he had purchased the heroin for $1000 on December 13 last, from a deck hand on the Mexican steamer, Sierra Mantana, at Tampico. He and Flores were en route to Santa Anita to sell it at the tracks, he said.

There is no money available for band concerts or music this year unless the council borrows from the park appropriation, Banks said.

Leland Auer, director and Harry Hanson, manager, of the Santa Ana Municipal band, said they were favoring the proposition on the ballot because the music issue was mixed up with advertising at the repeal election last year, and many persons wanted music continued and advertising dropped, but had to vote against both issues. Auer appeared before the council last night and said that the council would not be taking a stand for or against music by merely placing the proposition on the ballot for an expression from the voters.

In the election ordinance given final passage by the council, the pay of election board officials was set at $5, the officers and polling places, voting hours, and other election data were designated, and the music fund proposition incorporated.

CITY COUNCIL PLACES MUSIC TAX PROPOSITION ON BALLOT FOR APRIL VOTE

Waiting until the last legal day to add a proposition to the ballot on April 8, the city council last night passed the election ordinance which included a proposition to create a music fund not to exceed two cents for each $100 of assessed valuation. This would raise a fund of about $3000 annually.

The proposition will call for a yes or no vote to authorize the council to include the music fund money in the tax rate. Santa Ana voters decisively repealed a 12-cent advertising and music tax measure at a special election last August after the council had refused pleas to adopt an economy policy.

At the present time money may be appropriated under another old ordinance passed in 1913 which permits levying up to three cents for each $100 assessed valuation for music, advertising and parks, according to City Auditor Banks.

The full three cents levy, which raises about $4500 per year, is now expended for the upkeep of parks, Banks said.

The first ordinance, passed as No. 557 in September, 1913, permitted the council to spend one cent for music, one cent for parks and one cent for advertising, or all the money for any of the provisions. This ordinance remains unchanged at the present time, although a need was felt for more money for music and advertising in 1927 and an ordinance was voted by the people in May of that year, setting up a six cent tax levy for music and the same for advertising.

Banks explained that with music and advertising taken care of by the 1927 ordinance, the entire three cent levy under the 1913 ordinance was spent for parks. When the 12 cent ordinance was repealed last year, the three-cent ordinance remained in effect.

There is no money available for band concerts or music this year unless the council borrows from the park appropriation, Banks said.

Leland Auer, director and Harry Hanson, manager, of the Santa Ana Municipal band, said they were favoring the proposition on the ballot because the music issue was mixed up with advertising at the repeal election last year, and many persons wanted music continued and advertising dropped, but had to vote against both issues. UNIFORM CODE FOR BUILDING BEFORE COUNCIL

Backed by the Orange County Builders Exchange and opposed vigorously by a contractor and an architect, a proposed uniform building code was discussed at length before the city council last night.

Theron Means, president of the Builders Exchange, presented a copy of the uniform building code prepared by the Pacific Coast Building Officials and a standard electrical code prepared by the Pacific Coast Electrical Bureau. A petition accompanied the builders code signed by 33 of the 34 state licensed contractors in Santa Ana, asking that it be adopted.

Julius Markel, the only contractor who did not join in the request, made a strenuous protest to the code. He maintained that Santa Ana had an adequate code, it was adapted to local conditions, could be amended easily if necessary, that it was easily understood by the public, that the uniform code proposed was many times longer and more complicated, and that the uniform document would have to be greatly amended to be suitable here.

Means answered that the code was in use in all parts of Orange county except Santa Ana, would make it easier for contractors, was a progressive step forward and had been studied thoroughly by local men.

Architect Frank Lansdown, a member of the audience, supported Markel and said that the uniform code was too legal, difficult to work with, and would have to be altered here, thus nullifying the objective of uniformity.

Building Inspector S. I. Preble said that he would require several changes if the uniform code was adopted and that with the exception of one chapter on steel buildings, was no better than Santa Ana's code.

Robert Hatfield, secretary of the exchange, declared that the uniform code was easier to interpret. Contractors H. A. Barrows and L. R. Wilson spoke in favor of the proposed code.

Councilman Joseph P. Smith ended the discussion when he moved that the application and codes be referred to a committee consisting of Building Inspector S. I. Preble, Electrical Inspector W. O. Packard, Plumbing Inspector Harry Crowe, City Engineer J. L. McBride and City Attorney Clyde Downing, to report back on March 18.

L. W. MacFarlane, representing the electricians, pointed out that there was no dispute on the electrical code and was sponsored by all the electrical contractors and most of the journeymen electricians.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

WASHINGTON (By Paul Mallon)

PERSUADERS
President Roosevelt has more congressional persuaders hidden in mind than congress ever saw before. If he should let down his arms today, big sticks would fall out by the cord.

For instance, the mayor of a large city called a White House adviser on the long distance the other day and said substantially: "Say, if the president needs any help in his relief work, I can organize a march of millions from every important city in this country that will make the last bonus army look like a corporal's guard. They are wiring me about it now. Just give me twenty-four hours."

The mayor was advised to hold a movement in check, that probably too many people have mixed in the situation already.

Nevertheless, the offer is a fairly good hint that Mr. Roosevelt is as heavily armed as a Huey Long bodyguard.

IMPATIENCE

Something of the same influence already has asserted itself. Governors of certain states are reported to have grown restless about the delay in relief funds. Some of them have been wiring and telephoning in here, not only to White House advisers, but to their senators and representatives. Governors and mayors do not care much about academic arguments over the payment of regular wages for relief work. What they want is the money.

DELAY

It may now be denied, but the White House was ready to accept a compromise immediately after Mr. Roosevelt returned from Hyde Park, and suddenly changed its mind. Certain advisers are supposed to have persuaded the president that any untimely move would weaken his congressional prestige and encourage later insurrections.

This is why the Robinson compromise failed so mysteriously over the last week-end.

The compromise was actually worked out by Senator Wagner, although he remained in the background. In general it gave the president discretion about paying a prevailing union wage. The trouble with it was that it could keep Mr. Roosevelt on the wage spot all the time. He would have to spend most of his time settling wage disputes in different localities.

JITTERS

There is plenty of dirt inside the NRA if the senatorial investigators choose to dish it. No other government agency (even the AAA) has so many people in its employ who are dissatisfied with its administration, law and command. This is one of the reasons why NRA-ERS have been running around in circles since the senate authorized an inquiry. No one knows who is going to tell on whom, and how much.

As an instance of the inside NRA evidence available, Ruth Ayers of the consumers advisory board (NRA) filed a report January 9 which is a strong indictment of codes containing provisions contrary to court consent decrees in anti-trust cases. She cites chapter and verse on a number of cases tending to show how NRA has promoted monopoly.

For the information of senators, the document is entitled "Private price control and code policy."

NO COMMENT

There is inner evidence that the president is having difficulty keeping up with his new policy of not commenting on legislation pending in congress.

In that connection, it was just exactly a year ago that a congressional committee chairman arose and announced: "The president just called me by telephone a moment ago and said he hoped the bill could be passed."

You may rest assured that telephone lines from the White House to congress are still working, and working overtime. The only difference is that no congressional leader will again make the mistake of getting up and blurring it out.

TALK

Don't sit up nights waiting for the automobile strike. Privately, laborites admit that no one, including the A. F. of L., knows how many members the federation has in auto. Recent elections indicated it did not have enough to stop work on two fenders. A. F. of L.ers decline to regard these figures as significant because of their belief that the elections were improperly conducted.

A more important consideration, is money. If a strike call were successful, it would call for feeding, maybe housing, from fifteen to twenty-five thousand which is more than the A. F. of L. treasury could stand right now.

What seems to be behind the move is an effort to expose labor's lack of confidence in the auto labor board, and drum up pressure on congress for the new Wagner bill.

KINDNESS

The way European diplomats kill our emissaries with kindness is illustrated by the personal experiences of Commissioner of Labor Statistics Lubin, who recently attended the international labor meeting at Geneva. He was wine and dined so much he had to take to skidding to protect his waistline. Each day there was a luncheon and a dinner in his honor. Wherever he went his picture was snapped. When he tried to get one he always found the supply out, and finally was told: "You see, all the delegates want pictures of the American delegate."

After he spoke on the forty-hour week, a prominent European diplomat approached him, saying: "That was a splendid speech. I did not agree with a word you said, but your ideas were very impressive."

Lubin managed to escape before he became inert, but some have not.

NEW YORK AMENDS

James Jones' realism was too much for Wall Street's nerves. His remark that ailing railroads must justify their existence before they could expect any more help from the RFC started a wave of liquidation. For a short time it looked as if rail stocks were going right through the cellar.

That wasn't on the program at all. New York was highly amused by the speed with which Mr. Jones pulled the ancient Minneapolis & St. Louis rabbit out of his hat to prove that his heart was still in the right place. Insiders comment this rabbit is beginning to look shaggy from overwork.

They take the liberty of doubting that final arrangements have been consummated—despite the official announcement to that effect. They add that if it does go through you can be sure the eight purchasing roads were subjected to strenuous pressure to accept the necessary loans—and that the RFC's definition of sound collateral must be remarkably flexible. However, the gesture served its purpose of soothing the trading fraternity.

This doesn't mean that the RFC is reverting to its former policy of saving all railroads regardless. But the informed predict that when Mr. Jones wants to get hard-boiled hereafter he will do so in private and not for publication. The episode reminds an observer of a man who was surprised to find his wife in tears after he had bawled her out and hastily bought her a box of candy to make amends.

JOCKEYED

Financial circles are uneasy at the recent decline of the pound in terms of gold. Stories that the weakness is due to withdrawal of French capital from London—fear that a labor government will soon come to power in England—are discounted as naive. Experts insist that sterling is slipping chiefly because the British government wants it to slip.

The situation contains the germ of a serious depreciation war. If the pound continues to slide we would have to cheapen the dollar to maintain our trade position. If competition of that kind is carried far it's likely to damage all concerned.

Bankers doubt that it will actually come to that. They say the British are too smart to get themselves into such a jam—especially as we would be able to stand the pace better than they. They figure rather that our London friends are jockeying for a favorable position in negotiations for stabilization—and by that token predict that those negotiations are close at hand.

DOMINANT

New Yorker familiar with South America are suspicious of Argentine maneuvers in connection with the Paraguay-Bolivia scrap. They claim she is setting the stage for an act, with herself as the heroine and Uncle Sam as the stooge.

Delicate hints have been coming from Argentina that we ought to invoke the Monroe Doctrine against League of Nations interference. If we fall for this game we can easily squeeze the League out of the picture—which Argentina wants.

At the same time we give her the chance to rally Brazil and Uruguay with the time-honored squawk that the Yankee colossus is once again sticking his nose where he has no business. She knows perfectly well we will not horn in actively. But with Brazil and Uruguay lined up she could afford to plunge in openly on Paraguay's side (instead of the surreptitious backing she has given up to now), wallow the daylight out of Bolivia, grab off some valuable tin and oil territory and establish herself as THE dominant power in South America.

The purpose of getting us to play the stooge would be to divert Brazilian suspicions. Argentina is in good shape financially—thanks to Minister Pinedo—and could easily afford a cozy little war.

FAR EAST

Insiders learn that Chinese and Japanese bankers are discussing Japanese help for the Chinese silver problem. American silver purchases have pushed China into a hole. Hoarding has tied up credit completely.

America and Britain show no interest in China's plight. Japan has a bigger stake in China, and her banks have ample cash for first-aid purposes. Japan's Pan-Asiatic aims would be sunk by a Chinese smash-up.

Canada's tariff bars Japanese manufactured goods, and Japan is considering reprisals on Canadian raw materials. This would be a break for American exports of wheat, lumber and wood-pulp.

SQUELCHED

New York is getting remarkably pure so far as the more blatant financial rackets are concerned. The old gas of calling up holders of established stocks and urging them to sell in order to invest in Consolidated Junk Heap is just about extinct. The suckers never seemed to get tired of that one—but the Securities & Exchange Commission has managed to squelch it.

JOBS

Believe it or not, there's a boom in one class of Wall Street employment. Brokers are building up statistical departments in an

Make HAPPINESS a Habit

Wouldn't you like to step up the amount of enjoyment you get from life? The knack of keeping fit is largely a matter of regular habits. Your happiness may be hampered by common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in your meals.

Did you know that your grocer has a natural cereal food which corrects this condition? Kellogg's All-Bran, eaten regularly, supplies generous "bulk." Also vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is gentle—and safe for normal individuals. More effective than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this natural food much better than taking patent medicines? Serve it as a cereal with milk, or cream, or use in cooking. Get Kellogg's All-Bran at your grocer's. It contains much more "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ASK GROWERS FOR ESTIMATE ON PRODUCTION

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Stressing the importance of complete and accurate estimates in the face of the large crop in sight, the California-Arizona Citrus Marketing Agreement has called for an estimate as of March 1 of the 1935 Valencia orange crop according to W. C. Frackleton, secretary and manager of the Agreement. Official estimate and application for allotment forms have been mailed to all shippers and unaffiliated growers of record, he said.

"It is extremely important that every producing Valencia grower be included in this estimate before the start of the shipping season," said Frackleton. "The shipping allotment issued weekly for each grower after the start of the season is figured entirely on the percentage of the total crop each grower controls as estimated by the estimates filed with the Growers Advisory Committee."

"Growers should protect their interests by the start of the shipping season by arranging for the movement of their crop through some shipping organization or they may file their estimate and apply for a shipping allotment direct to the Growers Advisory Committee, 514 East Eighth Street, Los Angeles."

NICHOLSON NAMED ON POLICE FORCE

L. H. Nicholson, 1430 North Baker street, was appointed a member of the police department by the city council last night to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Jess Kuckles as police captain and the elevation of Robert Elliott as acting captain.

Nicholson was named on the recommendation of Floyd Howard and motion of Police Commissioner Fred Rowland. Nicholson resigned as deputy sheriff to become a candidate for constable at the last election and was a former member of the police department.

Letter from Grand Jury Commends Water Department

Praise of the general city government in Santa Ana with special commendation of the water department was contained in a communication to the city council last night from the Orange county grand jury.

W. M. Muckenthaler, chairman of the grand jury committee on cities, stated that the city offices were being operated in a very satisfactory manner. He cited the work of Superintendent Harry Hayes in the water department and said collections on delinquent bills were the best of any city in Orange county.

Recommendation was made that the two deputy license inspectors in the city clerk's office receive an increase in salary proportionate to the salaries paid for same work in other departments.

The report also declared that the offices of the city clerk, chief of police, auditor, and city engineer were being conducted in a capable way.

Council Acts To Prevent Outside Charity Work Here

Abiding by a policy of keeping outside charitable agencies away from Santa Ana, the city council last night denied the application of the Industrial Work Shop for the Blind of Los Angeles and the Industrial Home for the Blind at Oakland, to have solicitors sell products in the city.

According to the application, rugs, baskets, brushes and brooms were among the merchandise to be sold.

DESTRUCTION OF RODENTS SAVES CONSIDERABLE SUM

IF FIGURES of rodent exterminators can be believed, Santa Ana is wallowing in wealth because 30,442 of its rat and mouse population were trapped and poisoned under a SERA project.

For example, using government project, rodent control is at a standstill temporarily. The report showed that 7157 rats were trapped, 21,842 poisoned to make a total of 28,999. The mortality in trapped mice was 1445, making a grand total of 30,442 dead rodents.

Poison was placed in 2078 palm trees and trapping and extermination took place in 4212 private dwellings, hotels and apartment houses. Under the SERA, there were 1394 six-hour man days, making an average number of 25 rodents killed per day per man.

Quoting this activity in figures, the project cost Santa Ana $198 or $0.005 per rodent. Delving again into the question of unborn rats, the cost would be only $0.0015. The report included 276 rats and 68 mice trapped in Tustin.

These surprising figures were only a part of a comprehensive report of the SERA rodent extermination project in Santa Ana submitted to the city council last night. With the curtailment of the

TOWNSEND CLUBS THANK COUNCIL

Appreciation of Santa Ana Townsend clubs for the city council's endorsement last week of the old age pension plan and its memorializing congress to enact it into law, was expressed last night in communications sent to the trustees.

Letters were read from Grant Henderson, president of Townsend club, No. 11, and the Association of Townsend clubs of Santa Ana.

14 Per Cent Boost In Living Costs Since Last March

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Despite the advance of the past two years, living costs in Los Angeles remain about 18 per cent below the pre-depression level, according to the Monthly Summary of Business Conditions issued by the Research Department of the Security-First National Bank.

"While California farmers undoubtedly are in a better position than two years ago, it appears probable that the average city dweller is finding that his cost of living is advancing at least as rapidly as his income," the report says. "The cost of goods purchased by wage and low salaries workers has advanced about 14 per cent since March, 1933. Most of the increase has been occasioned by rising prices on food and clothing, that is, items derived from the products of agriculture."

Dealing with other features of the business situation, the review states: "Reflecting the improved position of agriculture in Southern California, the two most ac-

SMITH NAME FOR SEWER BOARD POST

Councilman Joseph P. Smith was appointed to represent Santa Ana on the joint outfall sewer board last night on recommendation of City Engineer J. L. McBride, who has served in that capacity since 1931.

McBride explained that when he resigned from the city council, A. F. LeGays, his successor, asked him to remain on the sewer board because he would not be able to attend the meetings. With the naming of Smith to the council, McBride said the change should be made.

Ask Appraisal On Property for Use In Street Opening

Progress in the investigation of opening Flower street between Fifth and Sixth streets was announced by the city council last night with the asking of the Santa Ana Realty board to make an appraisal of the property.

The realtors were required to report back at the next meeting of the council on March 13 to guide the trustees in negotiations.

tive lines of trade in February were farm equipment and automobiles in the suburban and rural areas. Department stores in Los Angeles and outlying communities maintained sales at approximately the same level as in January. Gains over February of a year ago were shown by most concerns, the five largest Los Angeles stores exceeding that month by about 7 per cent."

The "feud" of property owners on Beverly place and Cubbon street, regarding the possibility of renaming portions of the street, continued at the city council last night with new petitions and additional oratory.

The controversy started several weeks ago when a petition was given the council to change Cubbon street to Beverly place in the two blocks from Orange to Main streets. At present, the street is named Cubbon from the western end across the city to the east as far as Orange avenue, east of which continues as Beverly place.

Last night the first petition read urged that Beverly place remain unchanged and that the two-block section between Main and Orange be renamed Beverly place. There were 21 signers on the paper.

The other petition, signed by 15 persons, asked that the entire street from east to west be named Cubbon street.

Each faction insists that confusion will be eliminated by making its desired change.

The council referred the new petitions to City Engineer J. L. McBride and City Attorney Clyde Downing, who are investigating the situation.

Grant Permit For Construction Of Model House Here

Permission for local business men and builders to erect a model house in the business district to demonstrate the feasibility of low cost construction, was granted by the city council last night.

Architect Frank Lansdown presented the request last week, building inspector Sam Prebie reported that if such a building is to be located in the fire zone, the council must authorize the issuance of a permit.

The house will be built, furnished and modernized in every way, Lansdown said, and will be open for inspection to the public. He indicated it would be located near First and Main streets.

Newport Council Lets Contracts For Water System

START WORK ON BEACH PROJECT IN TWO WEEKS

NEWPORT BEACH, March 5.—Work on the new municipal water system for Newport Beach will be started within 14 days, as the result of action of the city council last night in declaring an emergency situation and signing contracts for the work.

The National Cement Pipe company, of Santa Ana, was awarded the contract for furnishing 9450 feet of pipe for the project at a cost of $8316, the work of installation to be done within 20 working days.

The Byron-Jackson Pump company of Los Angeles was awarded a contract for the furnishing of a six-inch, 75 horsepower booster pump, with a capacity of 1200 gallons a minute, for $1222.

Bids on the installation of the pipe were received from the La Habra Concrete Pipe company, the Tustin Cement Pipe company and the Perle's Concrete Pipe corporation of Orange. Nine bids were received on the pump.

The council allocated $16,000 for the work, approving the plans and specifications of City Engineer R. L. Patterson. Emergency resolutions were passed empowering City Attorney Roland Thompson and Mayor Hermann Hilmer to sign the contracts. The system will be installed on the 93-acre tract belonging to the city, approximately a mile and a half from the present site of the wells.

No bond election will be necessary in order to build the contemplated system, as there is sufficient money in the working fund of the city to finance it. Original plans for the installation of a system and the holding of a $120,000 bond election were rescinded by the council recently on grounds of economy. City wells were abandoned nearly six months ago, when they became polluted with oil well brine, and the city has been purchasing water since then from Laguna Beach.

No other business was considered, and the meeting was adjourned out of respect to Councilman Irvin George Gordon, whose mother died Sunday.

H. B. COUNCIL ACTS SOON ON OUSTING OF POLICE OFFICER; PLANNING COMMISSION SOUGHT

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 5.—Police and routine affairs occupied the attention of the city council last night, with the discharge of Motorcycle Officer H. F. Robidoux by Chief of Police George M. Gelzer being the principal item of business. The council was in session four hours, two hours in executive session.

Chief Gelzer reported to the board that the officer was discharged "for the good of the department." A letter was read from Robidoux requesting a hearing and denying that the chief had caused to discharge him. Following a two-hour executive session, the council decided to postpone action on the matter until a special meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock.

The council chamber was filled to standing room with interested spectators drawn by the police matter, about half the audience waiting until after midnight for the verdict of the council which resulted in no action, the four councilmen evidently having been unable to reach an agreement.

Chief J. K. Sargent of the fire department, of which Gene Belshie, newly named policeman, was a member, reported to the council that Cecil Dowdy had been named as a fireman to succeed Belshie. This appointment was confirmed by the council by unanimous vote.

The matter of erecting a high-way sign on Ocean avenue between Tenth and Eleventh streets brought forth opposing ideas. Frank J. Bundy, chairman of the chamber of commerce Ocean avenue improvement committee, opposed the placing of a sign on the avenue inside the city limits. Councilman Willis H. Warner also expressed himself as opposed to permitting the sign to be erected, pointing out there was an ordinance against it. A new ordinance was proposed and placed in the hands of the city clerk which rescinded the old ordinance to the extent that the sign could be installed on Ocean avenue. Mayor Talbot said the sign at the present time occupied the post office site, and the owner of the lots on Ocean avenue desired the rental that would accrue if the sign was allowed on his lots. The matter went over by general consent of all concerned until the next meeting of the council for further investigation.

Seek Planning Board
Will H. Gallienne, secretary of the Business Men's association, in a letter to the council asked that a planning board be named for this city. He pointed out that the B. M. A. had asked the appointment of a planning board of the council on April 13, 1934, and again at the regular meeting of the organization last week had voted to make the same request.

Gallienne also requested for the B. M. A. that the proposed open air amphitheater be constructed at this time when federal funds are available. Mayor Talbot, with the sanction of the council, held both matters under the next meeting of the council.

About 20 oil operators of the city petitioned the council to reduce the oil derrick license from $24 a year to $12 a year. The petition was referred to the oil committee for investigation.

Boys To Run City
The De Molay order was granted by unanimous vote of the council the right to run the city for a day. The De Molay, junior organization of Masonry, will be in charge of the city on March 13 and will name officers to the various city posts for that day, including a mayor, police chief, fire chief, city clerk and all city officers.

R. B. Hosmer, president of the Townsend club in this city, invited the council to attend a mass meeting to be held by the Townsend Old Age Pension club Memorial hall, at 7:30 o'clock Friday night. Mayor T. B. Talbot will be the chief speaker. The public is invited.

Liquor License Protested
The request for a cafe license with permit to sell wine and beer at the Huntington Inn on Ocean avenue at Eighth street was held up for further investigation. The Huntington Inn has been refitted and prepared for a cafe and dinner dancing and is said to be ready to open for business as soon as the permit or operating license is granted. Councilman Warner protested against a liquor permit in that location.

NEWPORT CLUB SEEKS TO KEEP HARBOR OPEN

NEWPORT BEACH, March 5.—The United States government will be petitioned to keep the channel entrance to Newport harbor open while the government hopper dredge San Pablo is dredging the entrance this spring. It was stated today by members of the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

The San Pablo is expected in the harbor entrance by the first of April, and it is felt by many yachtsmen that its work there, which will correspond with laying of the jetty top rock by the Robidoux company, will effectively bottle up the harbor for a 30-day period.

The government will be asked to subsidize its lines across the harbor entrance, so that yachts and other craft will be allowed an entrance. The city council will be asked to forward a request to the government to keep the harbor open.

Plan Discussion Of Water District Work Friday Night

PLACENTIA, March 5.—The work and program of the Orange County Water district will be discussed at Friday night's meeting of the Placentia Farm center, scheduled for 8:30 o'clock at the Round Table club. The meeting will be for dinner. President Fred Gleason announced.

Included on the program will be a discussion of the county water district, presented by W. C. Mauerhan and William Wallop, members of the board. Louis Jacobson, chairman of the storm drainage committee, will give a report of the work of that committee, and the directors' report will be presented by William Bielefeldt.

There will also be a musical program. It was announced, featuring Mrs. William C. Armstrong and her daughter, Violet, in vocal and instrumental music.

The blood capillaries of the human body attain a total length of 100,000 miles.

Whittier Singers To Give Concert At H.B. Wednesday

HUNTINGTON BEACH, March 5.—A program to which the public is invited will be presented at the Huntington Beach Union High school assembly period Wednesday afternoon from 1:15 until 2 o'clock. The Whittier Men's Glee club will give a concert. Archie Closson, state commander of the American Legion, will give an address on the subject, "Schools and the Legion." Dr. P. E. Sheehan, Orange county council commander and commander of Joseph Rodman post, will introduce the speaker.

CITY COUNCIL OPPOSES STATE ROAD MEASURE

PLACENTIA, March 5.—Placentia city councilmen Monday night passed a resolution opposing Governor Merriam's program of bringing all highways of the state under the state for control and maintenance. The resolution was similar to one passed recently at a mass meeting in Fullerton called by Orange county truckmen.

Mayor C. R. Young presided. The meeting was devoted to routine matters. A report of Judge S. C. Harmony revealed that 17 had been collected in fines for February. No jail sentences were given. Police Chief Gus Barnes reported four arrests and one car seized and recovered.

City Clerk Nellie Cline reported that the grand jury report had revealed that the city is being operated efficiently.

School Head to Address P. T. A.

GAIN RECORDED IN BEACH CITY BUILDING WORK

NEWPORT BEACH, March 5.—Building permit figures for the month of February took a jump, as revealed by reports of Building Inspector A. M. Nelson, today. The total sum for the month was $135,904.90, boosting the year's total to $135,857.90.

Included in this figure was $114,000 for the building of a new elementary school building. Work on this project was started approximately 10 days ago by the John Strona Contracting company, of Riverside. Thirty men are being employed at the present time, many of them being residents of the beach area.

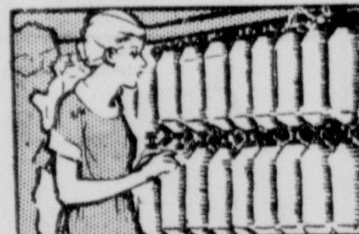

Construction will be started soon on a new two-story office building and store at East Newport, near the Newport Beach public library, by John Meurs, of Newport. Two old frame buildings, one housing the East Newport Grocery store, operated by George Garfield, and the other housing an antique shop, will be torn down to make way for the new structure.

Contracts for the wrecking of the two buildings were awarded to H. W. Wright, Costa Mesa. The new building will be erected at an approximate cost of $3500, and will have a 60-foot front on Central avenue. Meurs is the owner of a new market building recently constructed on Main street in Balboa.

Figures for March will be considerably above the average. Nelson said, as approximately $40,000 to be spent for the rebuilding of the Rendezvous Ballroom in Balboa will be included. This work is already under way by the Bettenson contracting company, of Long Beach, and will be finished by March 23.

February totals for 1934 were $12,766, and for the corresponding two month period were $21,766. Totals for 1935 will far exceed any totals of recent years, it was believed. The 1934 aggregate was $235,074.

programs will include a playlet presented by the seventh and eighth grades and a social hour, when members of the executive board will serve refreshments.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 19-year-old brother, PHIL, support their mother, Mrs. M. A. Henderson. STEVE MEYERS, who also works in the mill, asks Gale to marry him, both mother and brother in answer in a few days.

Gale goes skating, breaks through the ice, is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian has come home after a year in Paris to enter the mill. Gale disappears before he learns her name.

ROBERT THATCHER, daughter of BRIAN, schemes to captivate Brian.

At work in the mill, is summoned to the office of MISS GROVES, personnel director. Miss Groves makes it plain that if Gale will pass on information about her fellow employees it will be to Gale's advantage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV
There was a clock on the bookcase facing the personnel director's desk. It was a small clock with a case of dark, polished wood. The ticking of the clock was the only sound that broke the stillness. It went "tick-tick, tick-tick," and to Gale it seemed to shriek.

She knew that Miss Groves was waiting for her answer. Miss Groves was watching her. Gale looked down at her hands, clasped together in her lap, and said, "I couldn't, Miss Groves."

"I'm afraid I don't understand you."

"I don't know anything about the meetings you've been talking about," Gale said. "I've never been to any, and I don't know anyone who has. But if I did, I wouldn't want to come and tell about it. It sounds—sneaking to me."

The lines about the older woman's mouth tightened, and two sharp spots of color came into her cheeks. "Don't be insolent!" she snapped. "We have ways to cure insolence, too. How dare you suggest that I asked you to do anything sneaking or underhand?"

"I didn't mean that, Miss Groves. I'm sorry it sounded that way. I only meant—well, that I'd rather not."

"What you mean is that you're an impertinent young woman. You—"

The anger died from the woman's voice but in her eyes there was a chilly gleam. "You will report to your foreman at once," she said. "At once."

"Yes, Miss Groves."

Gale arose and went out into the corridor. She walked down the long hallway with rapidly beating heart. "It's done now," she thought. "I'll lose my job now. Oh, why couldn't I have told her I'd do it? Why didn't I say something—anything to make her think I agreed? I could have gotten out of it somehow later. I'll lose my job now and what'll I do?"

There were no harsh words from the foreman as Gale had expected. She did not see him again that afternoon. She went back to work, fingers flying with new energy. She worked harder, faster, she thought. She had to keep that job! They couldn't possibly live, she and Phil and her father, on the little Phil made. It was hard enough, skimping to make things come out even on her wages and Phil's together.

Over and over, as Gale jerked bobbins off spindles and clamped them on again she repeated the prayer, "They can't fire me. They can't!"

It was when she was walking home a little later, walking alone because Steve had stayed behind to talk to someone that Gale remembered his words of the night before. Steve had said, Brian Westmore was trying to pump you. He was trying to get information so that they could work us harder, grind us down and make more money for the company. You'd better watch your step."

Could Brian have been responsible for the interview with Miss Groves? Was it anything he'd said to him that had made them call her into the personnel director's office? Miss Groves had never spoken to her before. Why should she single her out now, just at this time? Gale didn't want to believe that Brian was responsible. She told herself it couldn't be true. And yet it was a coincidence—Steve's warning and what had happened this afternoon.

Gale hadn't said anything to Steve about it. She didn't want to tell anyone unless she had to. Unless he lost her job.

"If they're going to fire me," Gale thought, "I ought to know it pretty soon. Maybe tomorrow—"

Vicky Thatcher picked up the long handled mirror, turned her head slightly, inspecting her reflection. "It's not bad," she said. "Not bad—" The words died away as she tilted the tiny hat more severely.

"It's perfect, Miss Thatcher," Celeste, proprietor of the shop clasped her hands together. "So new, so smart! And you're exactly the type to wear it. I knew the minute that hat came in that I wanted you to have it. So many people can't wear the extreme, the really smart hats, but you—oh, it's perfect on you!"

Vicky turned the other side of her face to the mirror, raised her chin, "Yes," she said, "I think I like it." She tugged at the triangle of black straw that seemed a combination of Watteau shepherdess and archaic cap. "It's better than any of the others," she said.

"How much did you say it is?" "Thirty-five dollars, Miss Thatcher—no, $37.50. Such a beautiful straw—imported. And of course it's an exclusive model. You won't see another like it. It's absolutely exclusive with us—"

Vicky pushed the silver fox cape she had discarded to one side. There was a tuft of the silver fox on the chair beside her. She stood up—a trim figure in a black suit with unmistakable elegance in the simplicity of its lines. She reached for a handbag that had come from Paris and took out a vanity case. There was the flash of rubies as she opened the jeweled case and took out a powder puff. Vicky powdered her nose slowly and put the case back.

"Let me see that brown hat again," she commanded. "The one I thought I liked."

The brown hat was produced—a flat bit of fabric of ecclesiastic austerity until Vicky perched it on her head. On Vicky the hat suddenly became jaunty and flattering.

"I'll take it, too," she announced. "I'm so tired of all the hats I have. I suppose I'll be tired of these too, in a month but I'm simply got to have something new. Put them on my account and be sure that they're sent out this evening."

"Yes, Miss Thatcher. Now is there anything else?"

"No, Oh, yes, I need some hose. I want the same shade I had before. You can send a dozen pair—no, you might as well make it two dozen. They don't wear at all, but they are lovely and sheer. Oh, there's something else I want, too. That perfume you carry—'Be Mine,' the ounce size."

"Yes, Miss Thatcher. The ounce size is $30. It's lovely, isn't it?" Celeste's tone implied that $30 for such a treasure was really a trifle. She smiled as she made notations on her sales book. Miss Thatcher was a customer to be cultivated.

Vicky drew the fox cape about her shoulders and picked up her handbag. "You'll send them all out," she said. "And remember I must have them tonight."

"Yes, Miss Thatcher. I know you're going to enjoy your hats—both of them. Come in again soon. We are always getting new things."

Vicky disappeared through the door. She walked to the curb where a bright green roadster was parked. There was a young man in the car. He wore a gray hat and blue topcoat and he was smoking a cigaret.

Vicky said, "Hello, Greg. Is this a surprise party?"

He nodded. "Saw your car," he said, "and thought you must be somewhere around. I've decided to let you drive me home."

"Isn't that sweet of you!" Vicky smiled.

Greg Harmon got out, held the door open for her, and seated himself beside her. The car moved away from the curb, shifting smoothly through the gears.

"I called you last night and couldn't get you," Greg said abruptly. "I thought you told me you were going to be home?"

"But I was! The operator must have rung the wrong number."

"You're sure you weren't out with Brian Westmore?"

"Greg, how can you?" "Well—Where you?"

"No, of course not. How many times do I have to tell you I don't care anything about Brian Westmore? I have to be nice to him because of father's business relations. I've explained that before."

"You've said it," Greg admitted, "but it doesn't look like that to me. It looks—"

"Greg, are you going to be jealous of every man I speak to? If you are, I don't see what I can do about it. I've told you I don't care anything about Brian. How could I—when I know you? Darling, you're the only man I care about. You ought to know that. Only I don't like to have you setting jealous the way you do. It's so foolish, Greg. You ought to know there's nobody but you—"

"You really mean that, Vicky?" "Of course I do."

It was two hours later that Vicky, in her bedroom, lifted the ivory telephone and gave a number. A moment later she said, "Brian? Oh, I'm glad I caught you in. There's something I want to ask you."

She listened a moment, then went on. "Well—it's this Brian. Greg's been making a nuisance of himself again. I had to tell him something, so I said I had a date for tomorrow night. Do you suppose you could take me somewhere?"

Council Adopts Emergency Act To Ban Walkathons

ACTION TAKEN AFTER REQUEST BY CITY P. T. A.

Walkathons, dance marathons, tree sitting, pole sitting, platform dancing and other contests of similar character or nature were banned by the city council in an emergency ordinance passed last night on the request of the Parents-Teachers associations of Santa Ana.

The ordinance, patterned after the one passed in Los Angeles, was passed and will become effective tonight after one publication in The Register. Similar action is being sought from the county supervisors by the P. T. A.

Mrs. W. E. R. Crawford, president of the Santa Ana council of Parents and Teachers, declared that the 1275 members of her group were interested in providing young people with wholesome surroundings and clean entertainment and condemned walkathons and marathons as extremely undesirable.

Justice Kenneth Morrison, chairman of the work for the P. T. A. added his endorsement to the measure and told of his investigations of a walkathon conducted in Santa Ana several years ago, which convinced him that the lowering of morale of the contestants and the offensiveness of the spectacle to the community was sufficient to warrant the ordinance.

The ordinance specifies that it shall be unlawful for any person to conduct or carry on or to participate in any dance marathon contest or contests exhibition or exhibitions, or any walkathon or walking contest or contests, or tree sitting, pole sitting, or platform dancing tests, in the city of Santa Ana.

Any person, firm, corporation, association, society or club violating any of the provisions of the ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and if convicted, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or both.

It shall be a separate offense for each day during any portion of which any violation of any provisions of the ordinance is committed.

The ordinance was deemed an emergency law because such contests "are injurious to and dangerous to the health of the people who participate therein, and if permitted to be conducted, tend to disturb the public peace and are detrimental to the neighborhood adjacent to where the same are conducted, and provide an undesirable environment for the young people of the community; therefore this ordinance is urgently required for the preservation of the public peace, health and safety."

The adoption of the ordinance was moved by Joseph P. Smith, seconded by Fred Rowland and carried unanimously.

SIX RESCUED AFTER DRIFTING AT SEA ALL DAY

Six passengers aboard three small star boats and a light cruiser were rescued near Newport Beach late last night by a coast guard cutter and the fishing boat Hobo, of San Pedro, following a nine-hour buffeting by heavy seas. The craft had been adrift since early morning, when the cruiser's engines failed.

Those rescued were H. L. (Hook) Beardslee, Balboa, international star boat champion for 1934; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Howard, Hollywood; William Dennis, Balboa; Douglas McKinnon, Pasadena, and Dr. J. N. Kolish, Los Angeles.

The entire party was enroute to Newport Beach from the mid-winter regatta, at Los Angeles Harbor, which was held last week. They left San Pedro at 5 a. m. with the cutter Florence, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Howard, towing the three star boats, By-C, sailed by Beardslee; Sir Salty, with McKinnon aboard, and the Peroysa, skippered by Dr. Kolish.

The cruiser's motors are said to have stalled about an hour and a half out of San Pedro, as they battled the heavy seas. To avert damage Beardslee was forced to cut the tow rope, and the craft drifted apart.

The coast guard cutter Hermes went to the rescue of the Florence, sighted drifting near Huntington Beach, and put a line aboard the craft, towing it to Balboa. H. D. Buzles, skipper of the fishing boat Hobo, found the By-C and the Sir Salty, towing them into Newport Harbor. The Peroysa, its rudder gone, drifted onto the beach near the Bolsa Chica gun club, near Huntington Beach.

All three of the craft are registered at Newport Harbor, and had participated in the Los Angeles yacht club races. Howard is a film director. None of the participants in the thrilling rescue suffered any ill effects from the adventure.

Lecture Series To Be Transferred To Church Building

The next series of addresses by the Rev. Julia Budlong, director of the Free Church Fellowship in Santa Ana, which will commence next Sunday, will be transferred from Veterans Hall to the Unitarian church at Eighth and Bush streets, the Rev. Miss Budlong announced today.

Decision to make the transfer was made at a business session of the Fellowship last Sunday evening. The Unitarian church is being renovated in preparation for the coming series, during which the director will continue her discussion of the theme, "Knowledge Remaking Religion."

The first series of the lectures on "What Religion Means to Religionists" will start a second series of three lectures on "What Modern Scholarship Contributes to Religion."

Chalmers Receives Friendly Letter From Roosevelt

Stephen Chalmers, well-known Laguna Beach author and forester, has received a note from President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was learned today.

Chalmers, who is a personal friend of the president, corresponds frequently with Roosevelt. The two became good friends and went on many hunting expeditions together in the East.

This last note from Roosevelt to Chalmers said: "Dear Stephen: It was good to get your note. Do all you can for the trees. We cannot afford to let the people forget them. All goes well here, and I do hope to see you one of these days." It was signed personally by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Italian Soprano On Program With L. A. Philharmonic

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Dusolina Giannini, celebrated Italian soprano, will be the star that will shed lyric beauty for the Philharmonic Orchestra as soloist Saturday night March 16 in Philharmonic Auditorium, Los Angeles. Isay Dobrovren of San Francisco will be guest conductor.

The famous diva will sing three of the greatest soprano solos in operatic literature. The numbers are: Gluck's regal "Divinites de Styx," from "Alceste," Weber's dramatic aria "Ocean, thou Mighty Monster," demanding tremendous power and virtuosity; and Gounod's "Plus grand Dans Son Obscurite" an exquisite gem from the opera "Queen of Sheba."

The guest conductor will direct the 30 musicians of the Philharmonic in Tchaikowsky's popular Fifth Symphony and Mendel's Concerto Grosso in D-minor for Stein.

ASK COUNCIL ENDORSEMENT OF TAX CHANGE

Advocating a 50 per cent distribution of liquor tax revenue to cities and counties instead of the present system, the Southern California Business Men's association sought the endorsement of the city council last night. The association was active in the campaign for repeal of the Wright act.

Referring to assembly and senate bills fostered by the state board of equalization, a letter from the organization said that the 50 per cent plan was more equitable and fair to the cities and would enable them to have a fund for the enforcement of liquor laws within the respective cities and counties.

At the present time, all revenue is retained by the state to pay costs of enforcement of the liquor control act, and any surplus is pre-rated to the cities.

The matter was referred by the council to City Attorney Clyde Downing for recommendation.

POLICE RECOVER 3 STOLEN AUTOS

Three Santa Ana men had their automobiles stolen over the week end but were fortunate enough to have them recovered in various parts of Orange county.

Coach William Foote, of the Santa Ana high school, who lives at 1303 North Broadway, had his machine stolen from the Santa Ana Country club Sunday afternoon while playing golf. That night his car was recovered by police at North Main and El Portal streets.

F. E. Farnsworth Jr., 2219 North Broadway, had his car stolen from his home Saturday night. The auto was recovered by Orange police Sunday and returned to Farnsworth, who reported that a radio, several sweaters and other effects were not molested.

The car of LeRoy Levens, 628 North Van Ness street, stolen on the 101 highway north of Santa Ana Sunday night, was found in Brea by police several hours later.

The 30 musicians of the Philharmonic in Tchaikowsky's popular Fifth Symphony and Mendel's Concerto Grosso in D-minor for Stein.

CANDIDATE

Jess R. Buckles, below, former night captain of the Santa Ana police department, today made formal announcement of his candidacy for chief of police of Santa Ana.

650,000 Boxes of Oranges Used for Citrus Products

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—More than 650,000 field boxes of oranges, for which the growers were paid more than $225,000 were purchased and processed by manufacturers of citrus products during the past Valencia season, according to a report issued today by the Citrus Products Manufacturers association. This does not include fruit sent to the exchange by-products plants, or sold to bottlers of fresh juice, which is distributed in this area.

The manufacturers paid an average of 43 1/2 cents per field box cash at the packing houses. The largest volume was purchased from the California Fruit Growers exchange, but many boxes also were bought from the Mutual Orange distributors, American Fruit Growers, and other independent houses.

Among the products being made from this fruit are peels, oils, canned juices, beverage products, concentrates and flavors.

BUCKLES SEEKS ELECTION AS POLICE CHIEF

Jess R. Buckles, former night captain of the Santa Ana police department who has had about nine years of experience in law enforcing work in Orange county, today made a public and formal announcement of his candidacy for chief of police of Santa Ana.

Buckles resigned his post as head of the night police department here recently when he announced that he planned to run for chief of police and did not feel that he should take the city's time in which to conduct his campaign.

For three and a half years Buckles was chief of police in the city of Placentia, resigning that post to become an Orange county deputy sheriff. He was in the sheriff's office for about a year, until the administration was changed. From there he went to Huntington Beach, where he worked as a police officer for three months. When the present chief was elected, he asked Buckles to take the important post of captain of the night police squad.

In his official announcement, Buckles said: "If I am elected chief of police of Santa Ana by the voters in this city, I promise to enforce all state and city laws to the best of my ability, dealing with the citizens of this city in a fair and impartial manner and making no distinction between classes. Enforcing of liquor laws, of course, comes under the general plan I have of enforcing all laws with which I have to deal."

"Another plan which I will put into effect if the voters see fit to place me in office is to alter somewhat the present methods of dealing with the traffic problem. I plan to place the motorcycle officers in strategic places where they can do the most good when traffic is the heaviest. I also plan to put in at least half of my time contacting the public and determining what their needs and wishes are in regard to police activities."

There are only 2366 Europeans in the Northern Territory of Australia, but they represent the bulk of the non-aboriginal inhabitants of that district.

Chapter Holds Program On “The New Indian Policy”

Speaking on “Indian Citizenship,” Dr. Eleanor George of Los Angeles, vice chairman of Indian affairs for California D. A. R., gave an address Saturday afternoon at a monthly meeting of Santa Ana chapter D. A. R. held in the home of Mrs. George W. Bond, 507 East Myrtle street.

“The New Indian Policy” was the theme of the program. In addition to Dr. George's address was a talk by Mrs. C. DuFault of this city, a member of the Klamath Indian tribe of Oregon. She discussed “Customs and Beliefs of Indians.”

Mrs. Charles Srisco, accompanied by Mrs. Malcolm Macdura, sang “Land of the Sky Blue Waters,” “By the Waters of Minnetonka” and “Indian Lullaby,” concluding the group with “Spring Song,” the words of which had been written by Mrs. Bond, and set to music by Mrs. Macdura.

Guests at the affair were Mrs. Brisco, Mrs. Macdura, Mrs. Frost Buchtel, Miss Effie Douglas, Mrs. Theo Cox of St. Louis, Mo., and Mrs. Holmes Kingsbury of Midway City. The latter displayed a painting, “Indian Chief,” done by Mr. Kingsbury.

Refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Miss Martha Whitson, Miss Mabel Whiting, Messdames R. C. Northcross, W. H. Hadson, R. W. Purpus and R. A. Tiernan. Indian rugs, baskets and other articles had been arranged about the rooms to lend an appropriate setting to the occasion.

The next meeting of the chapter will be held Saturday afternoon, April 6 in the Gustin Music-Arts studio.

Sullivan-Harnois Vows Pledged In Long Beach Church

Beauty of ceremony and setting distinguished the wedding service Friday, March 1 at which Miss Charlotte Harnois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Harnois, 414 East Walnut street, became the bride of Russell C. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sullivan, West Washington avenue. The couple exchanged vows at 5 o'clock in the evening in beautiful St. Luke's Episcopal church in Long Beach.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan have returned from a honeymoon trip to Santa Barbara, and are taking up residence at 116 East Walnut street, where they will be at home to their friends after March 15. Both have resumed their business duties in this city. Mr. Sullivan with the Santa Ana Woolen Mills, and his bride, in the attendance office at Frances Willard Junior High school.

One hundred guests were present for the wedding ceremony. Vesper candles glowed at the altar where stocks, lilies of the valley, sweet peas and other all-white blossoms had been given effective arrangement.

The bride's brother, Duncan Harnois, was at the organ, playing a group of love songs before swinging into the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as a recessional.

Miss Harnois' bridal costume was of shimmering white satin. Her shoulder-length veil had been donned twice before by brides of the past year. Mrs. William Kolhorst (Dorothy Lutz) and Mrs. Myron Dunbar (Louise Bryant), the bride observed further traditions by wearing a lucky sixpence in her shoe, the same that had been worn a few years ago when Miss Grace Jackson of Anaheim was wedded to Frank Humphreys.

The church rector, the Rev. Mr. Perry Austin, officiated, reading the ceremony from the white prayer book carried by the bride. Lilies of the valley, sweet peas and satin ribbons showered from the volume. Marshall Harnois gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Eva McNeil of Los Angeles, formerly of Santa Ana, was maid of honor, wearing a white frock with matching hat. She carried a sheaf of pastel-tinted spring blossoms, tied with a large white bow. Silver clips which complemented her costume were gifts of the bride.

The bridegroom's brother, Warren Sullivan of this city, was best man. Ushers were Creston and Bruce Harnois.

Pausing for congratulations in the parish hall, Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan then left for their honeymoon trip. Both the young people were graduated from Whittier college, having had their earlier schooling in Santa Ana.

For the wedding, Mrs. Marshall Harnois wore a dark blue suit, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Jerry Sullivan was in brown. Both had corsage bouquets of gardenias.

A PERT NECKLINE FOR SMALL GIRLS

PATTERN 2169 BY ANNE ADAMS

It's a light of heart little frock—enough to boost the spirits of any little girl to superb heights of happiness. Even if you omit the pert ruffle at the neck, the frock is still charming—due largely to the side flares of the skirt, which give a nice ripple and plenty of room. We really love the ruffle, tho', as it form a nice frame for a young face. Sleeves may be loose, or run with elastic to make them puff. It's a dress that's good in a hard wearing fabric, and pretty enough for the sheer ones for special occasions. Try it in a new printed lawn, in Swiss, muslin or gingham, and for very best in crepe de Chine.

Pattern 2169 is available in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 8 takes 2 1-8 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

ery stalks. Slice in half-inch lengths and pile on top of the shredded lettuce. Dress with the diet dressing, which has a base of mineral oil in place of regulation salad oil. Consequently it means practically nothing in terms of calories.

A luncheon of this type, even though low in calory count, has enough energy units to permit a busy afternoon of golf, shopping, in the garden, or some window washing, if that's your pet exercise.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Fruit Drop Cakes
4 eggs, beaten together
3 level cups brown sugar
1 heaping tsp. baking powder
1-2 tsp. salt
2 cups flour
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup seeded raisins, cut with knife
1 tsp. vanilla.
Beat eggs to a thick cream, gradually add sugar and continue beating until the sugar morges smoothly with eggs. That's your liquid base in this recipe, you see. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together, and work into the creamed base gradually. Before the batter becomes too thick, add the chopped walnuts and raisins, then balance of flour.
Drop by spoonfuls on buttered tins and bake about 12 minutes in a medium oven.
With the addition of a little chocolate, 1-2 cup melted butter and spices, these drop cakes become the well known toothsome “rocks.”

Each little drop cake has a calory value of approximately 115, provided the recipe makes around 40 cakes. And sugar, flour, nuts and raisins all spell energy, and energy gone wild, usually finds its way home to you as overweight.

A Dark Nut Loaf
3 cups bran
3 cups white flour
3 cups whole wheat flour
1-3 cup melted vegetable fat
1 cup chopped nuts
2 cups raisins
2 tpsps. baking powder
1 egg
1 tsp. soda dissolved in
2 cups buttermilk
1 Tbsp. salt.
Combine all three flours, sifting salt and baking powder with white flour. Make a depression in flour and stir in beaten eggs, melted fat and a little of the soda-mixed buttermilk. Gradually add buttermilk until the dough is mixed to consistency of biscuit dough, the fruit and nuts being added during this mixing. Use more buttermilk if dough is too stiff. Oil 2 bread tins, divide dough between them and bake 1 hour in

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

THE TINYMIES

"Say, Timmy, what did you do?" the girl snapped. "My house is wrecked and that's because I stood up straight. Oh, why am I so tall?"

"Right through the small roof went my head. I should have stayed stretched out, instead. At that, I guess I'm lucky that the whole house didn't fall."

"Oh, we are sorry as can be that we asked you to stand up. Gee, what can we do, now?" Scouty said. "The whole thing's due to us."

"We'll gladly work. Our best we'll give to help you build a place to live. In fact we'll do most anything if you won't start a fuss."

The giant laughed. "Ho, ho! He he!" and then said, "Are you scared of me? Well, I'm surprised. Say, I'm your friend. Don't worry any more."

"We'll find a way to fix my home, or else I'll start right out to roam. Why, it's been months since I have taken time, tots, to explore."

Just then they heard a voice cry out, "Hello, there! What's all about?" "Why, look," exclaimed wee Scouty. "Two strange men have come in sight."

"Each has a funny-looking hat, and clothes of white. My, think of that. Let's try and make friends with them. I am sure 'twill be all right."

"Of course it will," the giant cried. "These men soon will be by my side, and I will put them right to work. They're plasterers, you see."

"They will repair my house real quick. For those two men 'twill

Man-made Volcano Erupts—Wool!

When it was discovered that the fine, soft threads of rock erupted by Kilauea volcano, Hawaii, would be useful commercially, scientists created an artificial volcano. By throwing a slanting jet of steam (which the workman examines at top) against a stream of molten rock, a "rock wool" used in modernizing many houses under the Federal Housing Administration program, is produced. The "rock wool," similar to the volcanic threads known to Hawaiian natives as "Pole's Hair" (pictured below), is used to insulate walls and roofs.

Opera Puts Beauty In "Carmen" Role

The movies at last are influencing opera—singers for leading roles are being selected for beauty as well as voice. Louise Caselotti, young and beautiful, who looks like a living Carmen, has attained wide popularity in the role through her performances at the Hippodrome in New York.

Hits Road Back

Hitting the comeback trail in the films is Jean Acker, first wife of Rudolph Valentino, one-time idol of millions. She'll be seen in a film soon to be released.

Shrine Where King Albert Died

On the anniversary of the death of King Albert of Belgium, this shrine and chapel at the base of the cliff at Marche les Dames will be dedicated. They mark the spot where his body was found after the fall that killed him while at his favorite sport, mountain climbing.

Band in Coveralls Symbolizes Labor at Dedication

The final touch of symbolism was given the dedication of the new Labor building in Washington when the United Mine Workers band from West Virginia appeared, clad in coveralls, to supply the music for the event. Here the miners are shown as they dispensed melody, with even the conductor wearing overalls as he swings his baton.

Balked by Blizzards, They'll Climb Next Year

Headed by Bestor Robinson and Louis F. Clark, a group of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley, Cal., mountain climbers have their plans all made for Washington's Birthday, 1936. They'll attempt to climb Mt. Lyell, highest peak in Yosemite National Park. Washington's Birthday, 1934, they tackled the 13,090 foot peak, but were turned back by a blizzard. This year, on the same holiday, they tried a shortcut over glaciers, and storms again balked them. In a subsequent attempt, they were 600 feet from the summit when a blizzard again intervened. They still want to make the first winter ascent, and four of the party are shown on skis at the start of their last attempt.

Adds Romance to Literary Career

Her mother waited 60 years for recognition as an author, Ettie Stephens Prichard's childhood dream coming true at 67 with publication of her first book, but Margaret Prichard, above, New York short story writer, refused to wait for success—or romance. Well on her literary way, she'll combine a matrimonial career with work, her wedding to be a summer event in Chicago, the bridegroom, with whom she grew up in Princeton, Ill., to be James A. Carlson, now of Chicago.

Soviet Cavalrywomen Ride to 'War'

The spirit of Amazonian warriors of old flames in the women of Russia, as the top picture of Soviet cavalrywomen shows, their mounts wearing harness that may be attached to skis, in the maneuvers at the school of the Society for Chemical and Air Defense in Moscow. Below is an interesting race, in which Soviet cavalry troopers pull machine gunners and their weapons on sleds at a horse-ski sport festival on the Moscow river.

Ruth's Sponsor Knifed in Tokio

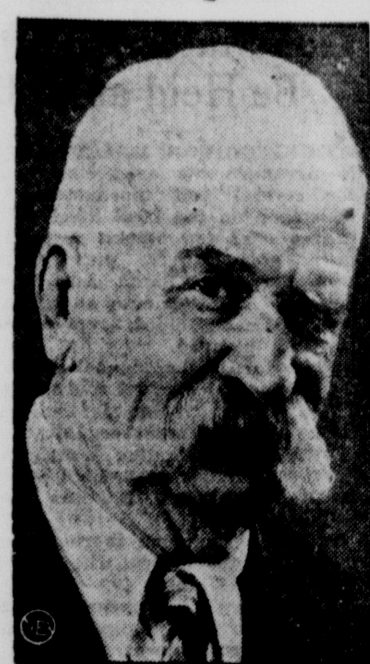

Near-tragedy was the aftermath of the American baseball players' tour of Japan, with Babe Ruth as headliner, when Matsutaro Shoriki, noted Tokio publisher, who sponsored the trip, was stabbed in the neck by another publisher, Katsusuke Nagasaki, outraged because the venture took money out of Japan in time of depression. Shoriki is expected to recover. He is shown left in this picture taken in Tokio, with U. S. Ambassador Joseph G. Grew, center, and Ruth.

First Code Sign

When this first state route number sign was posted by the Auto Club of Southern California on the Roosevelt coast highway this week, these bathing girls came up from the surf to "lay a cornerstone" in informal dedication. Many roads in this part of the state are now being numbered with these markers.

Mountaineers in Initial Broadcast

For some time there has been little or no "hillbilly" music on KREG due to strict rules which have been set up against alleged racketeers and instrumentalists whose idea of a "hillbilly" song is a twangy drawl and an utter disregard of tempo.

Now comes the "Ozark Mountaineers" of Fullerton and Placentia, who will make their debut tonight at 8 o'clock.

Subject to the approval of listeners and the hard-to-please program director, this group will be heard Tuesdays and Saturdays at the same hour for many broadcasts.

Included in their program of times for tonight's broadcast are "Carry Me Back to the Mountains," "Shanty Town," "Silver Bells," "Home on the Range," "Ragtime Ann," "Kansas City Kitty," "When They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree" and others.

KEEP SMILING HOUR ON KREG TONIGHT

Especially for boys and girls, Dr. James Workman, well known Orange county chiropractor, will tell the story of "How the Good Fairies Brought Health to Good Boys and Girls" during tonight's "Keep Smiling" program on KREG at 6 o'clock, together with a presentation of special music.

Musical selections will include "The Teddy Bears' Picnic," "The Sleepy Town Express," "Ahl-Sweet Mystery of Life," "Kiss Me Again," by Victor Herbert. The "Keep Smiling" program is scheduled each Tuesday at the same hour and is well received by a large number of listeners. It was stated.

AMERICAN FAMILY ROBINSON ON KREG

In last Tuesday's broadcast of "The American Family Robinson," it was learned that Betty had broken her engagement with Dick Collins because of a disagreement over attentions paid to her by the "Arcadian Shepherd" who has arrived in Centerville.

It is just "puppy love" or do Betty and Dick really care for each other?

This is the question that will be answered in tonight's dramatization of this popular broadcast from KREG at 8:45 and scheduled each Tuesday at the same hour.

CRIMINOLOGIST ON KREG THIS EVENING

A special radio address by Dr. Charles Fiescher, noted criminologist, on the government's fight against crime, will be broadcast from KREG tonight at 7:45 by means of electrical transcription.

This talk, made on a national network recently, was so well received that many have urged that it be given again and it is in response to numerous requests that the broadcast is being scheduled tonight on KREG.

BIG PROGRAM ARRANGED FOR PEACE OFFICERS

With an entertainment program headed by Nick Foran, Fox studio star, and including other stage and screen celebrities, a large attendance is expected for the monthly meeting of the Orange County Peace Officers association in the Orange American Legion hall tomorrow at 6:30 p.m.

Foran played in "Stand Up and Cheer," "Gentlemen are Born" and is now appearing in "Secret Lives." Murray Howard Boismith, Los Angeles radio and vaudeville star, will be master of ceremonies and introduce acts by Charlotte Bradford, and Ruth Stritt, soprano; Louise Mardros and Rosiland Harris, pianists; Henry Kaplan, comedian; Adeline Gatto, blues singer, and the SERA dance orchestra.

The speaker of the evening will be Judge Daniel Beecher of Los Angeles, an authority on parole laws and procedure. The program will be in charge of Chief R. R. Hodges of Newport Beach, while the newly elected president, Sheriff Logan Jackson, will preside. The meeting was scheduled for Newport Beach but was moved to Orange so that the vaudeville acts and varied entertainment could be presented on a stage.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE SHOULD NOT BE SUBSIDIZED

The president has come out quite emphatically in favor of a ship subsidy.

In the course of his argument for it, he points out the fact that we are paying 30 million dollars for carrying the mail by water, when, in the normal course of business, this should cost us but three million dollars.

He declares that this 27 million dollars extra money is nothing but a subsidy, and it might as well be called by its correct name, and he said:

I promise that we end this subterfuge. If the congress decides that it will maintain a reasonably adequate American merchant marine I believe that it can well afford honestly to call a subsidy by its right name.

It must be based upon providing for American shipping government aid to make up the differential between American and foreign shipping costs. It should cover first the difference in the cost of building ships; second, the difference in the cost of operating ships; and finally, it should take into consideration the liberal subsidies that many foreign governments provide for their shipping.

The argument that is used on behalf of supporting the American merchant marine is that in war time we would need our own ships, though it is admitted during these days we could save a vast amount of money to hire our mail carried by the natural cheapest channel.

Some way or other, we cannot get enthusiastic over the subsidization of private individuals in any undertaking where there is already a great surplus of facilities for this very work. Certainly no one would allege for a moment that there are not abundant vessels and abundant tonnage for all trans-oceanic business. And to take tax monies, running up into the millions of dollars, to insure profits on further investments in these enterprises, does not quite appeal to our business sense.

There is one thing, however, for which you have to give credit to Mr. Roosevelt,—he is never staggered over the use of public money. Whether granted as loans to banks, home owners, farmers or granted as a subsidy to ship-owners, or given to the people for sustenance, millions of dollars of money are not serious entities, judged by his use of them.

We presume that these subsidies will be granted and the American merchant marine developed. But we maintain that if the taxpayers are going to pay for it, and the government is going to furnish the money, that the taxpayers and the government should own it and not private individuals.

If the government is going to insure that this newspaper shall make a profit by handing it out money, we believe that the government should run this newspaper, for certainly the one who furnishes the money should have something to say about its direction.

MARGARET J. SPURGEON

The passing of Mrs. Margaret J. Spurgeon removes from our community life another of the old pioneers and founders of our city. We are again reminded of the courage and heroism of those early settlers which make possible the building of such a community as this. Certainly Mrs. Spurgeon had these qualities in full and rounded measure.

Her life was also a challenge and inspiration, in its breadth of interest in her fellow citizens, to all who knew her and loved to call her "Mother Spurgeon." Not only was she "mother" to her immediate family of children and grandchildren, but young and old throughout the city, who had any acquaintance with her instinctively addressed her as "Mother Spurgeon."

Deep and abiding as was her loyalty to her family, she never wavered in her loyalty and devotion to the best interests of the city of Santa Ana, to which she came in the days following the Civil war.

With her husband she began the work of constructing a city out of what was a "wilderness of wild mustard," as she was wont to describe her first impressions of the site of the city of Santa Ana.

Although always of a rather retiring disposition, "Mother Spurgeon" practiced in a positive way those sterling principles of aggressive convictions and actions that help to build on truth and righteousness a worthwhile community in which to live. She has left behind her a family and influence that will go on projecting the lines of usefulness and genuine prosperity and happiness in this community through the coming years.

FOX LOSES MOVIE PATENT SUIT

The greatest patent suit of the century was lost yesterday by William Fox, former owner of the Fox Theaters and until 1930 one of the leading producers of motion pictures in the world.

The patent suit involved the right of attaching the "sound track" directly to the picture. This is that part of the film which reproduces the voices, music and noises and embodies the principles of sound reproduction long used by player pianos and other mechanical musical devices.

Prior to the application of this principle to motion pictures, the voices and noises of the "movies" were recorded on a phonograph disc and as the picture was shown the disc was being played on a huge phonograph. So long as the film was new and the operator was highly skilled, lips and noises corresponded to the action being presented.

But once the film had torn or had been mended the voices and noises were heard after the action had taken place. The result was that new film and new records had to be supplied at great cost.

The Fox method of attaching the sound track to the film at once removed the phonograph from the projection room and no matter how a film was mutilated the sound was always in keeping with the action of the picture.

The court held, in effect, that the Fox-owned patents had not contributed anything new, and the mere application of a well-known method of reproducing sound to the movie industry did not constitute a patentable idea.

Had the patents of Mr. Fox been upheld, he would have been privileged to collect royalty from every movie fan in the United States and several other countries. The fact that producers and theater operators have not been paying Mr. Fox for the use of the patents he claimed would have placed the entire industry in debt to him had his claims been upheld.

Millions upon millions of dollars were involved in this piece of litigation; and probably the biggest patent suit of this generation passes into history; though men will long speculate on the millions upon millions a single man might have collected in royalties from the "movie fans" had his patents been upheld.

THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT

The Boy Scout movement has just been celebrating the 25th anniversary of its founding. During these 25 years the movement has grown to be one of the great and significant youth movements of the day.

In the early days of its existence, there were those who feared that it might become a military order. That fear has long since been laid.

It has become recognized as a movement which is character-forming to a high degree, and its introduction of many thousands of boys to outdoor life and nature study has been of the highest physical and educational value.

The Scout oath is one which deserves to be classed with the old Ephebic oath taken by the athletes of ancient Greece before participating in the games. It recognizes that the great virtues of kindness, cleanliness, helpfulness, and devotion are fundamental in good citizenship. There is every reason to believe that this oath is having a most salutary effect upon the lives of the boys in the Scout organization.

The movement goes into the next 25 years of its existence with the prestige of numbers and influence. Its oath may not always be kept by individual members; but thus far the leaders have succeeded in making it the serious purpose of all the boys enlisted in the movement to live helpfully and seriously. It is to be commended on what it has done, and also on the great opportunity which lies before it.

The Boy Scout movement has gained the confidence of the world and its benefactors are increasing continually.

Re-enact Civil War

Salinas Index-Journal

If there are ghosts about, a great collection of them should be in evidence in the famous old "wilderness" section of Virginia one day this Spring.

On May 2, cadets of the Virginia Military Institute and U. S. Marines from the Quantico base will unite to commemorate one of the most famous military maneuvers ever accomplished—the flank march by which Stonewall Jackson crumpled the right wing of the Union Army at the battle of Chancellorsville in 1862.

Cadets and marines will fight a sham battle; and an obscure wilderness road—renamed recently by CCC workers, and named "Jackson Trail"—will feel once more the thud of tramping feet as the young men duplicate the march which climaxed the great Stonewall's military career.

We are a long way from the Civil War, now, and events with which every schoolboy used to be familiar have become more or less obscure. This maneuver at Chancellorsville is one of them, and it is worth looking at for a moment or two.

The Northern Army was beginning another "On to Richmond" push that Spring of 1862. Hooker, the Union general, had a large, battle-tested army, and he was winding it around to the left of Lee's army trying to get between the Southern general and the Confederate Capital. Lee was prodigiously outnumbered, and the maneuver put him in a perilous spot.

Winding back through the forests was an old, little-used road not shown on most maps—the Plank Road, as it was called, leading toward the Confederate left and rear.

Lee and Jackson, seated on cracker boxes by a camp fire—that was before generals lived in secluded state, attended by innumerable staff officers—saw in that road the key to the battle.

So they divided the army, outnumbered as it was. Lee, with a ridiculously inadequate segment of it, remained in front of Hooker and persuaded that officer that the whole Confederate army was facing him; Jackson with the pick of the army followed the Plank road silently emerged on Hooker's rear at dusk, and launched a smashing attack which crumpled up the Northern army and sent it back in full retreat.

It was Jackson's last fight. In the dark and confusion his own men fired on him, giving him the wound that caused his death.

President Roosevelt has been invited to attend, and the affair ought to be well worth watching. It marks one of the great moments in American history.

World Neighbors

New Orleans Times-Picayune

Size of the word "internationalism" is a handicap to the cause, which also is so bulky that most of us instinctively fight shy. Speaking before the Rotary Club here, Dr. T. Z. Koo offers the substitute definition of "world neighborliness," which is certainly more expressive. Most of us can't quite get our teeth into the affairs of all humanity, and are sure that, if we did so, we would bite off more than we could chew; but we can see some point in viewing a stranger from another country as a person instead of merely an Italian, a Swede or a Chinese.

Hailing from one of the oldest nations, and one that is little understood by the average American, Dr. Koo has a convincing talking point. Despite the fact that China's cultural tradition extends back many centuries beyond the time the average Nordic quill wears skins, we are prone to judge today's Chinese (whom we call Chinamen) by the coolie type often found in America, which is a manifestly unfair test of Chinese civilization. However, with naive faith in a precept as old as Confucius, Dr. Koo says the road to all learning and international understanding is humility. If that is the only highway, the world, alas, has never seemed less willing to travel it.

'Oh, I Just Think You're Terrible!'

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

IT'S A PUZZLE TO ME

Stephen Leacock informs us that all bankers would prefer to be farmers.

When the banker isn't busy counting money
And piling little coupons in a till,
He likes to watch the bees amassing honey
And hear the cattle lowing on the hill.
He yearns to see the pigs becoming fatter,
And gaze upon the fields of wheat and rye
On which the silver rain falls pitter-patter
When speeding clouds obscure the summer sky.

The banker, we're assured by Mr. Leacock,
Has a yearning in his heart to sow and reap,
He would like to be the owner of a peacock
And possess a goodly herd of bleating sheep.
He'd delight to leave finances far behind him
As he watched the new peas swelling in the pod.
For Nature, he is certain, has designed him
To be a happy tiller of the sod.

I also may remark that every granger,
If he could lead the life he yearns to lead,
Would not be tossing fodder in a manger
Or serving shoats with necessary feed.
By choice he'd much prefer to come to anchor
Where mighty men of money daily sit;
He'd give his heart and soul to be a banker,
If he could only get away with it.

But such is life, and such is man's ambition,
Which with this human race plays merry hob.
As soon as people rise to high position,
They wish that they'd picked out another job.
And so it goes, through season after season;
Jones wants my place, and I am after his,
And neither of us has sufficient reason,
But that, dear friends, is just the way things is.

I was tawking to Mr. Riley the hooken ladder driver around at the firehouse, and I said, Hay, Mr. Riley, did you ever have to go to a fire when the weather was cold as anything? I dont mean just awful, I mean really farsee? I said,

There was a cold snap just before the Big Blizzard, and it's never been any colder or any snappier before or since, Mr. Riley said. Just as luck would have it, we was called out on a particularly dangerous fire in a celluloid collar factory, and the water from our hose froze in solid streams in the air before it had time to reach the fire, do you believe that? he said, and I said, Sure.

I'm glad you do, because the most peculiar part is still to come, Mr. Riley said. Well sir, it was the most beautiful nite that you ever saw, or more stickily speaking, that you never saw. The whole air was full of looping, twisting streams of solid ice, and when the sun hit them it was just like a thousand rainbows. Our men rushed off hope and got their cameras so they could have a permanent soverveer of the occasion. But fun is fun and bizness is bizness, and mean-while the fire raged on and on as box after box of celluloid collars exploded, and there was no way to reach it with water, but luck never deserts good old Engine Company Number 6, and that time was no exception, Mr. Riley said.

Well G, what happened? I said and Mr. Riley said. The thermometer dropped 3 more degrees, being all the room it had left to drop in, and those flames froze cold and stiff in mid air. Well, it was the work of minnits to rush in and chop them down with our axes and drag them off to a safe empty lot before they had a chance to start burning again, and by that time they were out of reach of mischief, and we had won the day. Well, drop over again some time, he said.

Which I will.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

FRANK GREGES AS A SYMBOL

On all hands Americans have expressed a sympathetic wonder that a sudden access to control unhinged the mind of Frank Greges, the aged carrier of a sandwich sign who found $45,000 in negotiable bonds, turned them over to the police, and was rewarded.

This one act of simple honesty made Greges a national figure overnight.

Reporters interviewed him. He was caught by the talking newswel.

He was asked to speak over the radio.

Wall street men outfitted him with what was to him a glamorous wardrobe.

He was given a job as messenger at $70 a month.

Attentions without number were showered upon him by prominent figures of the financial district.

Life would be sweet for him after years of hardships, he thought.

And then suddenly something snapped!

He was God! He could kill men with a glance! For years his spirit had been held tight in the straightjacket of poverty. Now, his reason gone, his mildness turned to madness, his poor body had to be put in a straight-jacket.

As my mind runs back to the mass madness of the speculative era before 1929, I cannot think that poor Frank Greges is such an exception after all.

"He couldn't take it, he couldn't stand prosperity," said the night clerk at the Bowery hotel where Greges lived.

This might well be writtten across the record of those pre-depression years. We couldn't take it. We couldn't stand prosperity. We thought we were gods who could violate every elementary law of economic enterprise and still wallow in wealth.

As we beat our way back to prosperity, let's remember poor Frank Greges.

NIGHT WORK

When a troubled mother called me recently and asked if I thought a child in the fifth year ought to do night work, I immediately thought of a factory, lights flashing and belts running and little children standing by machines. With explosive force I shouted back NO, of course not. Nor day work either, if it came to that.

After several minutes of confused talking I discovered that the mother meant home work. Should a fifth year child have home work? Since then that term night work and the factory background has been uppermost in my mind. Night work I not such a bad term for most of this home work, especially in the upper grades.

It seems to me that children of the primary grades, especially those who have a long school day, starting from home in the school bus at eight or thereabout, arriving home in the afternoon about four, should not be asked to think about school again until the next morning. They have had too much already.

The in between grades of the elementary schools need some sort of work to maintain the connection between sessions. The lessons ought to be brief and easy. They ought not to cover more than one point each. They should never be new points. New work must be taught in class, kept there until the child has mastered it, and then assigned in small doses for home lessons.

The upper grade children have to have home work. There is no time nor is there room for children to prepare the lessons for the next day. High school students must do independent work. After the plan of work is made clear, knotty points explained, they need an opportunity for independent work. They need to be weaned from the too close supervision, the too helpful attitudes of the teachers. But there is no reason why this work should take hours on end. It ought to be enough to sharpen the students' minds on the subject, enough to stimulate them to personal effort. In this way we encourage creative power.

There are a few simple standards to safeguard home lessons. The children in the early grades should have none. Only in exceptional cases, where exceptional conditions prevail, is a child given home lessons. These are carefully graded and supervised.

The children in the intermediate grades should be excused from home lessons unless they are failing. Then they ought to have lessons aimed to strengthen the weaknesses the teacher has discovered.

Upper grade children have regularly prescribed home lessons. They are repetitions of class work, easily done, easily corrected in class. They serve as a connecting link between sessions and keep the subject matter fresh and with-in call for immediate use in class next day.

High school students should have carefully organized home work. It should allow for review, for effort, and for creative expression. It must not be the sort that one could term night work. The atmosphere of the factory is the last medium for school purposes.
